Buried City, Unearthing Teufelsberg Benedict Anderson, 2017-07-06 Cities are built over the remnants of their past buried beneath their present We build on what has been built before whether over foundations formalising previous permanency or over the temporal occupations of ground But what happens when you shift a city when you dislodge its occupation of ground towards a new ground bury it and forget it Focusing on Berlin's destruction during World War II and its reconstruction after the end of the war this book offers a rethinking of how the practices of destruction and burial combine to reform the city through geography and how burying a city is intricately tied to forgetting destruction ruination and trauma Created from 25 million cubic meters of rubble produced during World War II Teufelsberg Devil's Mountain is the exemplar of the destroyed city Its critical journey is chronicled in combination with Berlin's seven other rubble hills and their connections to constructing forgetting through burial Furthermore the book investigates Berlin's sublime relation to Albert Speer's urban vision to rival the ancient cities of Rome and Athens through their now shared geographies of seven hills Finally there is a central focus on the role of the citizens who cleared Berlin's streets of rubble and the subsequent human relationships between people and ruins This book is valuable reading for those interested in Architectural Theory Urban Geography Modern History and Urban Design

Drawing Architecture ,2013-10-18 We are in the second decade of the 21st century and as with most things the distinction between digital and analogue has become tired and inappropriate This is also true in the world of architectural drawing which paradoxically is enjoying a renaissance supported by the graphic dexterity of the computer This new fecundity has produced a contemporary glut of stunning architectural drawings and representations that could rival the most recent outpouring of architectural vision in the 1960s 1970s and 1980s Indeed there is much to learn by comparing the then and the now The contemporary drawing is often about its ability to describe the change fluctuations and mutability of architecture in relation to the virtual real 21st century continuum of architectural space Times have changed and the status of the architectural drawing must change with them This reassessment is well overdue and this edition of AD will be the catalyst for such re examination Features the work of Pascal Bronner Bryan Cantley Peter Cook Perry Kulper CJ Lim Tom Noonan Dan Slavinsky Neil Spiller Peter Wilson Nancy Wolf Lebbeus Woods and Mas Yendo Contributors include Nic Clear Mark Garcia Simon Herron and Mark Morris Vernacular Architecture Newsletter ,2006 American Book Publishing Record ,2007 Architect ,2009-07 Blueprint ,2007 Landscape Architecture in the United States Harvard University. Department of Landscape Architecture,Albert Fein,1973 ASLA Resource File American Society of Landscape Architects. Department of Landscape Architecture,1936 La+ Community Tatum Hands,Richard Weller,2021-06-07 Almost everything that landscape architects design is ultimately for a community Community can be the boon or bane of a project and oftentimes both LA COMMUNITY aims to explore how over time each of us moves in and out of multiple communities shaping them as they shape us and in turn shaping our landscapes and cities We ask how different disciplines construct different ideas of community and how those communities are anchored in space and time whose interests they serve and what traces they leave And we examine how in this pluralistic fragmented and fluid world designers can meaningfully engage with communities
