- Explain how the two types of cell-cell communication work (the cell-cell)

Cell Signaling (page 111)

- What is the function of the cell membrane? It separates the cell from the environment and controls the entry and exit of materials.
- How does the cell membrane control the entry and exit of materials? It is a phospholipid bilayer with embedded proteins that act as gates.
- What is the difference between the two types of cell-cell communication? The two types of cell-cell communication are contact-dependent and non-contact-dependent. Contact-dependent communication involves the direct contact between the cells, while non-contact-dependent communication involves the release of signaling molecules that travel through the extracellular fluid to reach the target cell.
