Photography and Its Origins Tanya Sheehan, Andres Zervigon, 2014-11-20 Recent decades have seen a flourishing interest in and speculation about the origins of photography Spurred by rediscoveries of first photographs and proclamations of photography's death in the digital age scholars have been rethinking who and what invented the medium Photography and Its Origins reflects on this interest in photography's beginnings by reframing it in critical and specifically historiographical terms How and why do we write about the origins of the medium Whom or what do we rely on to construct those narratives What's at stake in choosing to tell stories of photography's genesis in one way or another And what kind of work can those stories do Edited by Tanya Sheehan and Andr s Mario Zervig n this collection of 16 original essays illustrated with 32 colour images showcases prominent and emerging voices in the field of photography studies Their research cuts across disciplines and methodologies shedding new light on old questions about histories and their writing Photography and Its Origins will serve as a valuable resource for students and scholars in art history visual and media studies and the history of science and technology

Taste: Media and Interior Design Karin Tehve, 2023-06-26 This book traces and explores the evolution of taste from a design perspective what it is how it works and what it does Karin Tehve examines taste primarily through its recursive relationship to media This ongoing process changes the relationship between designers and the public and our understanding of the relationship of individuals to their social contexts Through an analysis of taste design is understood to be an active constituent of social life not as autonomous from it This book reclaims a term long dismissed from interior design and unveils taste's role as a powerful social and political agent within systems of aesthetics affecting both its producers and consumers Each chapter discusses a taste concept or definition analyzes its reciprocal relationship with media and explores its implications for interior design Illustrated with 70 images taste's relationship to media is viewed through a variety of different lenses including books photography magazines internet social media and algorithms Written primarily for students and scholars of interior design and related design fields this book will be a helpful resource for all those interested in the question of taste and is an invitation to produce and consume all media critically

Photography as Activism Michelle Bogue, 2012-11-12 You want to look through the lens of your camera and change the world You want to capture powerful moments in one click that will impact the minds of other people Photographic images are one of the most popular tools used to advocate for social and environmental awareness This can be as close to home as drug use prostitution or pollution or as far away as famine war and the plight of refugees and migrant workers One well known example of an activist photographer would be landscape photographer Ansel Adams who trudged to Washington with stunning images of the American west to advocate protecting these areas His images and testimony were instrumental in creating the National Park System and garnering specific protection for Yellowstone National Park More recently Robert Glenn Ketchum's images of Alaska's Arctic

National Wildlife Refuge raised awareness of why this area should be protected Nigel Barker's seal photographs advocates against seal clubbing What is your cause and how can you use your camera to make the world a better place This book provides a comprehensive theory of and history of photography as activism It also includes interviews with contemporary photographers It is a call to action for young photographers to become activists a primer of sorts with advice for how to work with NGOs and non profits how to work safely in conflict zones and with suggestions for distribution on websites blogs and interactive agencies

Ten Years after Katrina Mary Ruth Marotte, Glenn Jellenik, 2014-12-18 Hurricane Katrina blasted the Gulf Coast in 2005 leaving an unparalleled trail of physical destruction In addition to that damage the storm wrought massive psychological and cultural trauma on Gulf Coast residents and on America as a whole Details of the devastation were quickly reported and misreported by media outlets and a slew of articles and books followed offering a spectrum of socio political commentaries and analyses But beyond the reportage and the commentary a series of fictional and creative accounts of the Katrina experience have emerged in various mediums novels plays films television shows songs graphic novels collections of photographs and works of creative non fiction that blur the lines between reportage memoir and poetry The creative outpouring brings to mind Salman Rushdie's observation that Man is the storytelling animal the only creature on earth that tells itself stories to understand what kind of creature it is This book accepts the urge behind Rushdie's formula humans tell stories in order to understand ourselves our world and our place in it Indeed the creative output on Katrina represents efforts to construct a cohesive narrative out of the wreckage of a cataclysmic event However this book goes further than merely cataloguing the ways that Katrina narratives support Rushdie's rich claim This collection represents a concentrated attempt to chart the effects of Katrina on our cultural identity it seeks to not merely catalogue the trauma of the event but to explore the ways that such an event functions in and on the literature that represents it The body of work that sprung out of Katrina offers a unique critical opportunity to better understand the genres that structure our stories and the ways stories reflect and produce culture and identity These essays raise new questions about the representative genres themselves The stories are efforts to represent and understand the human condition but so are the organizing principles that communicate the stories That is Katrina narratives present an opportunity to interrogate the ways that specific narrative structures inform our understanding and develop our cultural identity This book offers a critical processing of the newly emerging and diverse canon of Katrina texts
