

Introduction

Practice Exercises

- Q1 What are the three main purposes of an operating system?

Answer:

The three main purposes are:

- To provide an environment for a computer user to execute programs on computer hardware in a convenient and efficient manner.
- To allocate the separate resources of the computer as needed to solve the problem given. The allocation process should be as fair and efficient as possible.
- As a control program it serves two major functions: (1) supervision of the execution of user programs to prevent errors and improper use of the computer, and (2) management of the operation and control of I/O devices.

- Q2 We have stressed the need for an operating system to make efficient use of the computing hardware. When is it appropriate for the operating system to forsake this principle and to “waste” resources? Why is such a system not really wasteful?

Answer:

Single-user systems should maximize use of the system for the user. A GUI might “waste” CPU cycles, but it optimizes the user’s interaction with the system.

- Q3 What is the main difficulty that a programmer must overcome in writing an operating system for a real-time environment?

Answer:

The main difficulty is keeping the operating system within the fixed time constraints of a real-time system. If the system does not complete a task in a certain time frame, it may cause a breakdown of the entire system it is running. Therefore when writing an operating system for a real-time system, the writer must be sure that his scheduling schemes don’t allow response time to exceed the time constraint.
