manifestations of nature's conatus By intuitively and not just intellectually recognizing ourselves to be modes of nature we can more fully realize ourselves To achieve this requires a radical rethinking of our world of ourselves and of God and a far richer understanding of ecology and an ethics grounded in ecology than those in current usage Brian Fay explores this rethinking and the result is a new far reaching vision of our world and how to be responsible thriving agents in it Elie Wiesel, the Shtetl, and Post-Auschwitz Memory Christine June Wunderli, 2023-04 How are Holocaust events remembered and narrated and why What knowledge can Holocaust testimony convey Christine June Wunderli explores these questions as she examines four works by Holocaust survivor Elie Wiesel Guided by Bourdieu's theory of literary field as well as Young's theory of literary representation she traces Hasidic influences in Wiesel's writing Her conclusions are telling Wiesel's narratives are born as memory is pulled towards both Auschwitz and the shtetl caught up in the tension between the two Still the emerging trajectory is one of hope led by a new categorical imperative Substance, Judgment, and Evaluation Association for Core Texts and Courses. Body and World Samuel Todes, 2001-04-27 Body and World is the definitive edition of a book that should now take its place as a major contribution to contemporary existential phenomenology Samuel Todes goes beyond Martin Heidegger and Maurice Merleau Ponty in his description of how independent physical nature and experience are united in our bodily action His account allows him to preserve the authority of experience while avoiding the tendency towards idealism that threatens both Heidegger and Merleau Ponty Todes emphasizes the complex structure of the human body front back asymmetry the need to balance in a gravitational field and so forth and the role that structure plays in producing the spatiotemporal field of experience and in making possible objective knowledge of the objects in it He shows that perception involves nonconceptual but nonetheless objective forms of judgment One can think of Body and World as fleshing out Merleau Ponty's project while presciently relating it to the current interest in embodiment not only in philosophy but also in psychology linguistics cognitive science artificial intelligence neuroscience and anthropology Todes's work opens new ways of thinking about problems such as the relation of perception to thought and the possibility of knowing an independent reality problems that have occupied philosophers since Kant and still concern analytic and continental philosophy
