

How to Explain Family Science to Anyone

Create Your Family Science Elevator Pitch

When someone asks you "What is Family Science?" how can you answer effectively? Use our elevator pitch — the steps of progressively introducing a concept during a short elevator ride.

Follow These Steps:

1

Definition: Give a basic description of Family Science. One definition is good to share. Some interesting facts or a surprising example helps.

2

Relevance: In 1-2 sentences, explain why this field is exciting, important and important.

3

Examples: Give a real-life example of how Family Science understanding could be solving a problem. Use your words to summarize your audience's world without.

4

Research: Address how other disciplines approach your examples (connect with your audience's knowledge, knowledge about other topics or a relevant system).

5

Address: Address one interesting question your audience asks Family Science questions. You could address why it's important to focus specifically on families.

What Can They? Define it. Address it.

If you have 30 seconds or less, focus on steps 1 and 2. Give a clear description and address relevance.

What are the examples?

It's important for your own pitch, it's not only for your own pitch, it's not only for your own pitch.
