
NCLE Basic Exam Study Guide 2023 with complete solution

Diffused Illumination

- Uses widest slit, longest aperture
- Light source positioned at an angle of 40°-50°
- Used to view overall areas, to observe the ocular adnexa, cornea, sclera, lids, conjunctiva, lens surface, and CL fitting characteristics

Direct Illumination

- Most important/useful illumination
- Light source positioned at an angle of 40°-50° to oculars
- Light beam and oculars are focused in coincidence on area being evaluated
- The difference in the illumination is not the angle used, but where the beam is directed or focused and the width
- Varying width and aperture creates different illuminations

Optic(al) Section

- Type of direct illumination that uses a narrow beam to create a cross-section of the cornea
- Used to illuminate and observe individual layers of the cornea and tear film
- Used to evaluate corneal thickness, thinning, distortions, or depth of a foreign body
- Shows corneal-lens relationship

Parallelepiped

- Type of direct illumination
- Uses a 0.5-3.0 mm beam and a 40°-50° angle to create a 3-D cube
- Used to assess width, depth, and height of an object within the cornea
- Useful in observing scars, infiltrates, staining, and the corneal-lens relationship

Indirect Illumination

- Light source is moved out-of-click, the beam is 2-3 mm wide and is positioned next to the area being studied
- Illuminated area is translucent or opaque, allowing for observation adjacent to illumination
- Used to observe foreign bodies, corneal nerves, and opacities
- Oscillation of light accentuates details

Retroillumination

- Light source is out-of-click, moved to the side of the area being observed
- Using a 1-3 mm beam, the light is reflected off the iris and used to back-light the area studied
- Useful in examining corneal scars, debris, microcysts, scratches on the lens, sub-epithelial changes, corneal vascularization, diffuse edema, and surface deposits

Sclerotic Scatter

- Uses a focused parallelepiped placed out-of-click directed at the limbus
- Oculars are not used
- The light is dispersed at the limbus, reflected through the cornea, creating a circumcorneal halo
