How do light-dependent and light-independent reactions provide food for a plant?

Why?

Plants are the original solar panels. Through photosynthesis a plant is able to convert electromagnetic (light) energy into chemical energy. This energy is used not only to keep the plant alive, but also to sustain all creatures that rely on the plant for food and shelter. Plants and photosynthetic algae are also the source of all oxygen on Earth, allowing the inhabitants of Earth to benefit from our most plentiful renewable energy resource.

Model 1 – Chloroplast

1. Consider the organelle illustrated in Model 1.
  - a. What is the name of this organelle?
A chloroplast
  - b. Is this organelle more likely to be found in animal cells or plant cells?
Plant cell
2. The structures inside the organelle in Model 1 are called thylakoids. What compound necessary for photosynthesis is contained in the thylakoids?
Chlorophyll

agricultural ecosystems where differences in climate sensitivity between different photosynthetic pathways can influence community and ecosystem processes Evolutionary studies over past and current time scales provide further insight into evolutionary changes in photosynthetic traits the emergence of novel plant strategies and the potential for rapid evolutionary responses to future climate conditions Finally we discuss novel approaches to engineering photosynthesis and photorespiration to improve plant productivity for the future The overall goals for this volume are to highlight recent advances in photosynthesis and respiration research and to identify key challenges to understanding and scaling plant physiological responses to climate change The integrated perspectives and broad scope of research make this volume an excellent resource for both students and researchers in many areas of plant science including plant physiology ecology evolution climate change and biotechnology For this volume 37 experts contributed chapters that span modeling empirical and applied research on photosynthesis and respiration responses to climate change Authors represent the following seven countries Australia 6 Canada 9 England 5 Germany 2 Spain 3 and the United States 12     Plant Respiration ,2007
