Subtle Energy Healing Encouraging A Scientific Revolution:

Subtle Energy Healing ,2014 Subtle Energy Healing Encouraging a Scientific Revolution discusses the healing and nonviolent nature of Subtle Energy From Ancient times to the present the story of Subtle Energy sometimes called Chi by the Chinese is developed through the eyes of meditators scientists and yoga enthusiasts In the modern era Subtle Energy Healing focuses on Dr Tiller s experiments conducted in the 1990s In these experiments four meditators changed the pH of water using an energized intention It is now widely believed that the force behind an energized intention is Subtle Energy This experiment changed everything But more incredibly Dr Tiller and his meditators were able to imprint their intention into an electronic device When they sent the electronic device to colleagues 2000 miles away and the device was turned on the electronic device changed the pH of water without the meditators having to be present Medical professionals immediately saw the connection between pH donor electrons in human cells and energy healing This connection is developed through the work of Dr Tennant as well as Max Gerson the founder of the Gerson Way a healing modality which cures most forms of cancer The influence this new technology has had on alternative healthcare providers such as energy healers traditional healers and diet based therapies since the 1990s has been phenomenal In addition many new Subtle Energy Devices have been developed These devices have been a driving force in establishing this new technology creating new industries around the world The second quality explored is the nonviolent nature of Subtle Energy Since the 1970s many individuals have contributed research and insights into this idea However the primary recognition for the broadening of the nonviolent nature of Subtle Energy goes to Maharishi Mahesh Yogi founder of the Transcendental Meditation technique His ideas are brought to light by illuminating mantra technology and group consciousness The Maharishi was one of the first to discover a technological solution for world peace In the final chapter all the insights discussed and modern Subtle Energy tools that have been developed are brought together into a modern social media program called the Pathway Program The program uses all the modern Subtle Energy technologies to improve a person s health and wealth and contribute to the nonviolent nature of the community
