

The background of the cover is a painting. It depicts a green boat on a river, surrounded by a large crowd of people on the banks. Several flags are visible, including the Sudanese flag. A man in the boat is holding a long pole. The scene is set against a hazy, yellowish background.

Homeland Security Handbook Jack Pinkowski, 2008-01-24 Blinded by emotional rhetoric political posturing and genuine fear previous efforts to defend our way of life against aggressors intent on inflicting personal and economic destruction have proven in hindsight to be misguided panicked and reactionary Evaluation and assessment to date is largely focused on reviewing government documents

Muslim Democracy Edward Schneier, 2015-10-23 Muslim Democracy explores the relationship between politics and religion in forty seven Muslim majority countries focusing especially on those with democratic experience such as Indonesia and Turkey and drawing comparisons with their regional non Islamic counterparts Unlike most studies of political Islam this is a politically focused book more concerned with governing realities than ideology By changing the terms of the debate from theology to politics and including the full complement of Islamic countries Schneier shows that the boundaries between church and state in the Islamic world are more variable and diverse than is commonly assumed Through case studies and statistical comparisons between Muslim majority countries and their regional counterparts Muslim Democracy shows that countries with different religions but similar histories are not markedly different in their levels of democratization What many Islamists and western observers call Islamic law moreover is more a political than a religious construct with religion more the tool than the engine of politics Women who drive in Saudi Arabia as the author says are not warned they will go to hell but that they will go to jail With the political salience of religion rising in many countries this book is essential reading for students of comparative politics religion and democratization interested in exploring the shifting boundaries between faith and politics

societies Raphael Israeli locates the source of this anti Semitic sentiment in the inadequacies and insecurities of Muslim states By demonizing and delegitimizing Israel and Jews they seek to eliminate a successful counterexample of their own failures thus putting an end to their own humiliation Beyond mapping the distribution of anti Israel and anti Jewish propaganda in the Arab and Islamic worlds Israeli uses case studies to illustrate the premises of this study the Palestinians who have a direct stake in battling Israel Turkey which now claims leadership of the Arab and Sunni Muslim worlds and Shi ite Iran which provides a more extreme example of both hatred and disregard for fact and history while threatening to destroy Israel Israeli documents the worldwide collaboration between Jew haters of all sorts explaining the exponential growth of Jew hatred on the Internet with thousands of new hate sites added every year outpacing Jew hatred in the traditional media He places anti-Semitism in a broader tradition of political lies and political deceit In the final chapter Israeli considers the possibility of reversing anti Jewish agitation in Muslim countries which he finds unlikely because so many of the region's regimes are built on foundations of anti-Semitism

Gender Justice and Legal Pluralities Rachel Sieder, John Andrew McNeish, 2013-06-17 Gender Justice and Legal Pluralities Latin American and African Perspectives examines the relationship between legal pluralities and the prospects for greater gender justice in developing countries Rather than asking whether legal pluralities are good or bad for women the starting point of this volume is that legal pluralities are a social fact Adopting a more anthropological approach to the issues of gender justice and women's rights it analyzes how gendered rights claims are made and responded to within a range of different cultural social economic and political contexts By examining the different ways in which legal norms instruments and discourses are being used to challenge or reinforce gendered forms of exclusion contributing authors generate new knowledge about the dynamics at play between the contemporary contexts of legal pluralities and the struggles for gender justice Any consideration of this relationship must it is concluded be located within a broader historically informed analysis of regimes of governance

Rubin, Darfur's Political Economy Hamid Ali, 2014-08-21 Darfur is a vast region endowed with limited and unexplored natural resources poor infrastructure and lack of major development projects and identifying its economic and human development needs brings us closer to finding ways to alleviate its human suffering and environmental stress This book presents a broad spectrum of analytical perspectives from prominent academics professionals and practitioners from Darfur itself adhering to the principles of scientific inquiry with intellectual rigor and objectivity in order to form a collective thesis on the political economy of Darfur The first section in this title presents Darfur as a political entity including its systems of land tenure and administration The second section describes the water resources agricultural production and environmental conditions of the region The third discusses the cost of the war health issues and women s issues and the fourth discusses energy and transportation infrastructure While there are many existing books that discuss the current humanitarian and political crisis in Darfur this is one of the first to explore the causes behind the crisis This title is a valuable resource for academics students researchers and policy makers with an interest in the region and in the wider fields of political economy and conflict studies Across the World of Islam Samuel Marinus Zwemer, 1929 War of Visions Francis M.

Deng, 2011-10-01 The civil war that has intermittently raged in the Sudan since independence in 1956 is according to Francis Deng a conflict of contrasting and seemingly incompatible identities in the Northern and Southern parts of the country Identity is seen as a function of how people identify themselves and are identified in racial ethnic cultural linguistic and religious terms The identity question related to how such concepts determine or influence participation and distribution in the political economic social and cultural life of the country War of Visions aims at shedding light on the anomalies of the identity conflict The competing models in the Sudan are the Arab Islamic mold of the North representing two thirds of the country in territory and population and the remaining Southern third which is indigenously African in race ethnicity culture and religion with an educated Christianized elite But although the North is popularly defined as racially Arab the people are a hybrid of Arab and African elements with the African physical characteristics predominating in most tribal groups This configuration is the result of a historical process that stratified races cultures and religions and fostered a passing into the Arab Islamic mold that discriminated against the African race and cultures The outcome of this process is a polarization that is based more on myth than on the realities of the situation The identity crisis has been further complicated by the fact that Northerners want to fashion the country on the basis of their Arab Islamic identity while the South is decidedly resistant

Francis Deng presents three alternative approaches to the identity crisis. First, he argues that by bringing to the surface the realities of the African elements of identity in the North, thereby revealing characteristics shared by all Sudanese, a new basis for the creation of a common identity could be established that fosters equitable.
