

B1 Autosuggestions

Definition and when is it used?

The B1 Autosuggestion technique is used to reduce one's mental stress by removing personality defects of others or by changing their adverse situations. For this Autosuggestion, specifically, the other person should be either subordinate or junior to us. They can be our children, employees or anyone who is receptive to our suggestions. Even though the mistake is made by someone else, these Autosuggestions help to address and overcome our reactions. This technique is especially useful for parents or when you are in a managerial role and you have subordinates working for you.
