Purpose

Sulfuric acid (alternative spelling sulphuric acid) is a highly corrosive mineral acid. The historical name of this acid is oil of vitriol. Possessing different chemical properties, the sulfuric acid has a wide range of applications including domestic acidic drain cleaner, electrolyte in lead-acid batteries and various cleaning agents. It is also a central substance in the chemical industry. Principal uses include mineral processing, fertilizer manufacturing, oil refining, wastewater processing, and chemical synthesis.

It is a diprotic acid which may show different properties depending upon its concentration. Its corrosiveness on metals, stones, skin, eyes and flesh or other materials can be mainly ascribed to its strong acidic nature and if concentrated strong dehydrating property and strong oxidizing property. Concentrated sulfuric acid can cause very serious damage upon contact as not only does it hydrolyze proteins and lipids leading to chemical burn, but also dehydrates carbohydrates posing secondary thermal burn. Permanent blindness can result if it contacts eyes. So, safety precautions should be done when using it. Moreover, it is hygroscopic which readily absorbs water vapor in air.
