Hydrogen and Fuel Cells Bent Sorensen, Giuseppe Spazzafumo, 2018-02-10 In a multidisciplinary field such as energy Hydrogen and Fuel Cells stands out by covering the entire width of hydrogen production and usage technologies giving detailed descriptions of not just one but the range of very different fuel cells that have been developed or are under development In one volume respected experts Bent Sorensen and Giuseppe Spazzafumo provide all the basic scientific theory underlying hydrogen and fuel cell technologies but at the same time present applications and sustainable integration into society in a way accessible to a broad range of people working in this field whether in technical economic or management roles The third edition reflects both recently emerged technologies and the market penetration of the most promising technologies and it gives an appraisal of how far fuel cell technology may go in the future considering current challenges and economic trends This new edition has updated and expanded content on hydrogen storage and transmission molten carbonate fuel cells PEM fuel cells solid oxide fuel cells biofuel cells including microbial fuel cells applications in transportation and power plants future scenarios and life cycle assessment It is ideal for researchers and professionals in the field of energy and renewable energy in particular both in academia and industry It is also useful to lecturers and graduate students in engineering physics and environmental sciences as well as professionals involved in energy or environmental regulation and policy Gain thorough understanding of the science and applications of hydrogen and a range of different fuel cells including economic and social aspects of the field Updated sections include hydrogen storage and transportation biofuel cells PEM and solid oxide fuel cells applications in transportation and large scale power generation and life cycle assessment only describes the how and where aspects of hydrogen fuels cells usage but also the obstacles and benefits of its use as well as the social implications both economically and environmental. Written by a world renowned researcher in energy systems this thoroughly illustrated and cross referenced book is an excellent reference for researchers professionals and students in the field of renewable energy. Updated sections on PEM fuel cells Molten carbonate cells Solid Oxide cells and Biofuel cells. Updated material to reflect the growing commercial acceptance of stationary and portable fuel cell systems while also recognizing the ongoing research in automotive fuel cell systems. A new example of a regional system based on renewable energy sources reflects the growing international attention to uses of renewable energy as part of the energy grid. Examples of life cycle analysis of environmental and social impacts.

Emission Reduction with an Alternative Diesel Combustion Process Marvin Sascha Wahl, 2023-06-27 Marvin Sascha Wahl presents the possibilities for optimising diesel engine combustion. In the advanced process of partially premixed diesel combustion nitrogen oxide and soot emissions can be minimised at the same time. A new feature is the possibility of applying this strategy up to 2000 revolutions and 10 bar indicated mean pressure. In this work various effective parameters are also compared and correlated with each other. A final comparison with conventional diesel combustion shows the advantages and disadvantages and evaluates them.

Life-cycle Analysis of Energy Systems Bent Sørensen, 2011 Life cycle assessment of new energy solutions plays an important role in discussions about global warming mitigation options and the evaluation of concrete energy production and conversion installations. This book starts by describing the methodology of life cycle analysis and life cycle assessment of new energy solutions. It then goes on to cover in detail a range of applications to individual energy installations national supply systems and to the global energy system in a climate impact context. Coverage is not limited to issues related to commercial uses by consultants according to ISO norms. It also emphasizes life cycle studies as an open ended scientific discipline embracing economic issues of cost employment equity foreign trade balances ecological sustainability and a range of geo political and social issues. A wealth of applications are described and a discussion on the results obtained in each study is included. Example areas are fossil and nuclear power plants renewable energy systems and systems based on hydrogen or batteries as energy carriers. The analysis is continued to the end users of energy where energy use in transportation industry and home are scrutinized for their life cycle impacts. Biofuel production and the combustion of firewood in home fireplaces and stoves are amongst the issues discussed. A central theme of the book is global warming. The impacts of greenhouse gas emissions are meticulously mapped at a depth far beyond that of the IPCC reports. A novel and surprising finding is that more lives will be saved than lost as a direct consequence of a warmer climate. After a 2°C increase in temperature the reduction in death rates in areas with cold winters would outweigh the increase in the death rates in hot climates. However this is only one of several impacts from greenhouse gases and the remaining ones are still overwhelmingly negative. The fact that some population groups may benefit from higher temperatures notably the ones most responsible for greenhouse gas emissions whilst others who did not contribute much to the problem suffer is one of the main points of the book The book is suitable as a university textbook and as a reference source for engineers managers and public bodies responsible for planning and licensing Commercial Carrier Journal ,2001
