The Relentless Pursuit of Tone Robert Fink, Melinda Latour, Zachary Wallmark, 2018-09-18 The Relentless Pursuit of Tone Timbre in Popular Music assembles a broad spectrum of contemporary perspectives on how sound functions in an equally wide array of popular music. Ranging from the twang of country banjos and the sheen of hip hop strings to the crunch of amplified guitars and the thump of subwoofers on the dance floor, this volume bridges the gap between timbre, our name for the purely acoustic characteristics of sound waves, and tone, an emergent musical construct that straddles the borderline between the perceptual and the political. Essays engage with the entire history of popular music as recorded sound from the 1930s to the present day under four large categories. Genre asks how sonic signatures define musical identities and public voice considers the most naturalized musical instrument, the human voice, as racial and gendered signifier, as property or likeness, and as raw material for algorithmic perfection through software. Instrument tells stories of the way some iconic pop music machines—guitars, strings, synthesizers—got or lost their distinctive sounds. Production then puts it all together, asking structural questions about what happens in a recording studio, what is produced, sonic cartoons, rockist authenticity, empty space, and what it all might mean.

Romano-British Settlement and Cemeteries at Mucking Sam Lucy, Christopher Evans, 2016-11-30. Excavations at Mucking, Essex, between 1965 and 1978 revealed extensive evidence for a multiphase rural Romano-British settlement, perhaps an estate center, and five associated cemetery areas: 170 burials with different burial areas reserved for different groups within the settlement. The settlement demonstrated clear continuity from the preceding Iron Age occupation with unbroken sequences of artefacts and enclosures through the first century AD, followed by rapid and extensive remodeling, which included the laying out of a Central Enclosure and an organized water supply with wells, accompanied by the start of large-scale pottery production. After the mid-second century AD, the Central Enclosure was largely abandoned, and settlement shifted its focus more to the Southern Enclosure system, with a gradual decline through the 3rd and 4th centuries, although continued burial pottery and artefactual deposition indicate that a form of settlement continued possibly with some low level pottery production Some of the latest Roman pottery was strongly associated with the earliest Anglo Saxon style pottery suggesting the existence of a terminal Roman settlement phase that essentially involved an Anglo Saxon community Given recent revisions of the chronology for the early Anglo Saxon period this casts an intriguing light on the transition with radical implications for understandings of this period Each of the cemetery areas was in use for a considerable length of time Taken as a whole Mucking was very much a component place complex it was its respective parts that fostered its many cemeteries whose diverse rites reflect the variability and roles of the settlement s evidently varied inhabitants
