For a student leader, the most important quality is the ability to communicate. "I speak with the students," he says. "I let them know what we're doing and what is going on. They're not just going to sit there and wait for me to tell them what to do. They're going to tell me what they want to do. I'm going to listen to them and then I'm going to tell them what I think is best for the school."

The loan was made in 1946, and it was the largest loan ever made by the United States government to any foreign country. The loan was made to help the Soviet Union rebuild its economy after the war. The loan was made in the form of a loan guarantee, which means that the United States government guaranteed the loan. As the days drag on, these British boys of 7 and 8 years, a blond, plump little boy and a dark, wiry one, find themselves in a strange land, and they build a house for their friend. The Precarity of Masculinity Uroš Kovač, 2022-03-11 Since the 1990s an increasing number of young men in Cameroon have aspired to play football as a career and a strategy to migrate abroad Migration through the sport promises fulfillment of masculine dreams of sports stardom as well as opportunities to earn a living that have been hollowed out by the country's long economic stalemate The aspiring footballers are increasingly turning to Pentecostal Christianity which allows them to challenge common tropes of young men as stubborn and promiscuous while also offering a moral and bodily regime that promises success despite the odds Yet the transnational sports market is tough and unpredictable it demands disciplined young bodies and introduces new forms of uncertainty This book unpacks young Cameroonians' football dreams Pentecostal faith obligations to provide and desires to migrate to highlight the precarity of masculinity in structurally adjusted Africa and neoliberal capitalism

Feminist Theology and Contemporary Dieting Culture Hannah Bacon, 2019-08-08 Hannah Bacon draws on qualitative research conducted inside one UK secular commercial weight loss group to show how Christian religious forms and theological discourses inform contemporary weight loss narratives Bacon argues that notions of sin and salvation resurface in secular guise in ways that repeat well established theological meanings The slimming organization recycles the Christian terminology of sin spelt Syn and encourages members to frame weight loss in salvific terms These theological tropes lurk in the background helping to align food once more with guilt and moral weakness but they also mirror to an extent the way body policing techniques in Christianity have historically helped to cultivate self care The self breaking and self making aspects of women's Syn watching practices in the group continue certain features of historical Christianity serving in similar ways to conform women's bodies to patriarchal norms while providing opportunities for women's self development Taking into account these tensions Bacon asks what a specifically feminist theological response to weight loss might look like If ideas about sin and salvation service hegemonic discourses about fat while also empowering women to shape their own lives how might they be rethought to challenge fat phobia and the frenetic pursuit of thinness As well as naming as sin principles and practices which diminish women's appetites and bodies this book forwards a number of proposals about how salvation might be performed in our everyday eating habits and through the cultivation of fat pride It

Chasing Methuselah Todd T. W. Daly, 2021-02-04 The quest to live much longer has moved from legend to the laboratory Recent breakthroughs in genetics and pharmacology have put humanity on the precipice of slowing down human aging to extend the healthy life span The promise of longer healthier life is enormously attractive and poses several challenging questions for Christians Who wouldn't want to live 120 years or more before dying quickly How do we make sense of human aging in light of Jesus invitation to daily take up our crosses with the promise of the resurrection to come Is there anything wrong with manipulating our bodies technologically to live longer If so how long is too long Should aging itself be treated as a disease In Chasing Methuselah Todd Daly examines the modern biomedical anti aging project from a Christian perspective drawing on the ancient wisdom of the Desert Fathers who believed that the incarnation opened a way for human life to regain the longevity of Adam and the biblical patriarchs through prayer and fasting Daly balances these insights with the christological anthropology of Karl Barth discussing the implications for human finitude fear of death and the use of anti aging technology weaving a path between outright condemnation and uncritical enthusiasm
