Placing Nature on the Borders of Religion, Philosophy and Ethics Dr Forrest Clingerman, Mr Mark H Dixon, 2013-06-28

The natural world has been humanized even areas thought to be wilderness bear the marks of human impact But this human impact is not simply physical At the emergence of the environmental movement the focus was on human effects on nature More recently however the complexity of the term nature has led to fruitful debates and the recognition of how human individuals and cultures interpret their environments This book furthers the dialogue on religion ethics and the environment by exploring three interrelated concepts to recreate to replace and to restore Through interdisciplinary dialogue the authors illuminate certain unique dimensions at the crossroads between finding value creating value and reflecting on one's place in the world Each of these terms has diverse religious ethical and scientific connotations Each converges on the ways in which humans both think about and act upon their surroundings And each radically questions the damaging conceptual divisions between nature and culture human and environment and scientific explanation and religious ethical understanding This book self consciously reflects on the intersections of environmental philosophy environmental theology and religion and ecology stressing the importance of how place interprets us and how we interpret place In addition to its contribution to environmental philosophy this work is a unique volume in its serious engagement with theology and religious studies on the issues of ecological restoration and the meaning of place

Fossil Fuels, Oil Companies, and Indigenous Peoples

Tobias Haller, 2007 Fossil Fuels Oil Companies and Indigenous Peoples is a study of oil production that focuses on the places from which oil is extracted and on the problems both environmental and human created in those places Global public awareness of the devastating impact of oil extraction on local communities has grown considerably in recent years due in large part to Ken Saro Wiwa's work on behalf of the Ogoni in south eastern Nigeria and his death in 1995 at the hands of Nigeria's military dictatorship This volume consists of eight case studies all of them examining these questions What can indigenous people do when faced with the destruction of their natural and social habitats And how do oil companies respond to the various forms of local and indigenous resistance to their activities The eight case studies deal with oil producing regions in Alaska Ecuador Venezuela Peru Colombia Nigeria Papua New Guinea and West Siberia and encompass 18 indigenous population groups
