An avid comic book reader with a high school diploma, Kaptain has been working numerous menial jobs during the past thirty years, struggling to support himself and at times his mother, Mama Louise. Despite brief periods of a few ups, becoming baptized, and longer periods of many downs, verbal confrontations with his father, Daddy Bek, Kaptain has maintained a positive, enlightened perspective for human life, itself attempting to achieve his primary goal: becoming a successful screenplay writer.

A Passionate Schooling provides a clear scholarly overview of the key ideas behind Steiner Waldorf education. It examines how Rudolf Steiner developed his ideas in the context of his life and the culture in which he lived. A Passionate Schooling focuses on Steiner's insights as they relate to the nature of the human being, freedom, and the ideals of education and social renewal, new perspectives on child development, the evolution of consciousness, and the transformation of the self. It also explores the concepts of goodness, beauty, and truth as ideals in education, as well as the adaptability of the Steiner Curriculum. It reinterprets Steiner's ideas in the context of post-modernist thought and contemporary challenges and practices. A Passionate Schooling is a revealing text for students of education, teachers, and parents. The consensus amongst the leading researchers in the offender treatment area is that the comprehensive and sophisticated clinical methods the authors have derived for offender treatment are unsurpassed. Indeed, they have formed the basis for what is known as the core correctional practices for reducing anti-social behavior. Paul Gendreau, Professor Emeritus, University of New Brunswick, Bush, and colleagues' phenomenologically based approach to offender rehabilitation is based explicitly on the stories they have collected from prisoners and probationers and is a welcome contribution to an academic literature that too often obfuscates the actual work involved in delivering help to the hardest to reach in the criminal justice system. Shadd Maruna, Ph.D., Dean of the Rutgers School of Criminal Justice. Cognitive Self Change presents a practical guide to rehabilitation based on understanding the way individual offenders experience themselves and the world around them at the moment they offend. De-incentivizing criminal behavior and replacing it with self empowered change are the keys to upending the traditionally antagonistic relationship between criminals and those meant to help them change The authors with their experience of working with offenders and implementing rehabilitation programs have drawn together clinical and academic perspectives on the treatment of high risk offenders analyzing current approaches to treatment and the problems encountered in their application Cognitive Self Change rejects the traditional dichotomy of control versus treatment devising instead a strategy that integrates both Focusing on high risk and hard core offenders not just those that are ready to change they discuss why offenders offend why they are seldom motivated to change and why they often fail to engage in treatment This leads to a strategy of communication that teaches offenders a set of skills they can use to change themselves and that motivates them to do so
