Gianpiero Vincenzo, 2018-07-27 Consumerism has established itself as a dominant lifestyle but the reasons behind this are often unclear. This study revisits a large amount of diverse research and argues that consumerism is a powerful ritual machine that can make up for the modern lack of values with new symbols and rituals. Consumerism made its claim between the end of the 19th and the beginning of the 20th century when the traditional symbolic world had ended and a new one had not yet emerged. Slowly but progressively consumerism began to develop new symbolic forms and new social rituals becoming the basis for new mimetic behaviours. As nationalism has progressively declined, consumerism has permeated the entire social fabric. Supermarkets and shopping malls must be interpreted in the light of their ritual significance as temples and holy cities of a new symbolic order. In the consumeristic era, many people are led to think and imagine in consumer terms to identify themselves through consumption rituals. The impact of consumerism on culture from literature to art should not be underestimated. Many artists have tried to develop their aesthetics by triggering a dialectical or openly critical confrontation with consumerism. This book also takes into account the development of violence and the effects of consumerism on childhood and new generations. The book contains a preface by the German anthropologist Christoph Wulf and the images illustrating the text are by Belgian artist Michel Couturier.

Photography and Making Bedouin Histories in the Naqab, 1906-2013 Emilie Le Febvre, 2023-12-22 Introducing a novel anthropological study of photography in the Middle East, Emilie Le Febvre takes us to the Naqab Desert where Bedouin use photographs to make and respond to their own histories. She argues Bedouin presentations of the past are selective but increasingly reliant on archival documents such as photographs which spokespersons treat as evidence of their local histories amid escalating tensions in Israel. These practices shape Bedouin visual historicity that is the diverse ways people produce their pasts in the present with images. This book charts these processes through the afterlives of six photographs c. 1906-2013 as they circulate between the Naqab's entangled visual economies, a transregional landscape organised by cultural ideals of proximity and assemblages of Bedouin iconography. Le Febvre illustrates how representational contentions associated with tribal, civic and Palestinian-Israeli politics influence how images do history work in this society. She concludes Bedouin visual historicity is defined by acts of persuasion during which photographs authenticate alternating history projects. Here Bedouin value photographs not because they evidence singular narratives of the past. Rather, the knowledges inscribed by photography are multifarious as they support diverse constructions of history and society with which members mediate a wide range of relationships in southern Israel. This book bridges studies of anthropology, photography, Palestinian-Israeli politics and Bedouin Middle East history.
