Physiology of Human Female Lactation Nikolai Petrovitch Alekseev, 2021-02-23 This comprehensive Monograph examines all peripheral and central mechanisms of regulating the secretion of milk from the lactating breast The author reviews the complete female breast development starting with the early childhood up to pregnancy and lactation Structural and ultrastructural data on the alveolar ductal system together with details of breast innervation are used to investigate the physiological process of lactation Readers will appreciate the special focus on reflexes both in the child and the mother that help to regulate maternal milk production and secretion Following this the author sheds a light on the composition and dynamics of milk components during the different periods of lactation The final section of this volume focusses on practical aspects of modern breastfeeding like the use of breast pumps or galactogogues to influence the productivity of milk production These fundamental principles and structural details will be particularly useful for physiologists and clinicians working in gynecology and pediatrics

Lactivism Courtney Jung, 2015-11-24 Breastfeeding has become a moral imperative in 21st century America Once upon a time this moral imperative made sense Breastfeeding was believed to bring multiple health benefits including increased resistance to many chronic and even fatal diseases protection against Sudden Infant Death Syndrome SIDS improved intelligence and countless immunities The irony now however is that breastfeeding continues to gain moral force just as scientists are showing that its benefits have been greatly exaggerated In 2012 the American Academy of Pediatrics and the Center for Disease Control and Prevention declared the failure to breastfeed a public health issue thus placing bottle feeding on par with smoking obesity and unsafe sex Recently politicians too have launched highly visible breastfeeding initiatives such as former New York Mayor Michael Bloomberg's well publicized Latch On campaign And meanwhile women who don't breastfeed their babies have found themselves with a lot of explaining to do Physicians public health officials and other mothers are pressuring them to breastfeed even though the best science shows that the advantages of doing so are minimal at best What is going on In Lactivism Courtney Jung offers the most deeply researched and far reaching critique of the breastfeeding imperative to date Drawing on a wide range of evidence from rigorously peer reviewed scientific research to interviews with physicians politicians business interests activists social workers and mothers from across the social and political spectrum Jung presents an eye opening account of how a practice that began as an alternative to Big Business has become Big Business itself

Diversity and Division in Medicine Anne Digby, 2006 This is an innovative investigation of pluralism in health care Using both extensive archival material and oral histories it examines relationships between indigenous healing missionary medicine and western biomedicine The book includes the different regions within South Africa although focusing in most detail on the Cape the earliest area of white settlement In a wide ranging survey the division in medicine between western and indigenous medicine is analysed through an exploration of the evolving practices of healers missionaries doctors and nurses The book considers the extent to which there was a strategic crossing of boundaries in the construction of hybrid practices by these practitioners and the extent to which patients pursued health by sampling diverse care options Starting with missionary penetration during the early nineteenth century the volume outlines interventions by the colonial state in medicine and public health and the continued resilience of indigenous healing in the face of this The book ends by relating past to present in scrutinising the legacy of historical structures including those of the apartheid state for current health care and in briefly discussing the huge challenges that the HIV Aids pandemic poses in impacting on them The book thus provides an inclusive history of medicine for the New South Africa American Journal of Obstetrics and Gynecology ,1927 Breastfeeding Management for the Clinician: Using the Evidence Marsha
