The Evolution of the US Airline Industry Eldad Ben-Yosef, 2005-07-13 The Evolution of the US Airline Industry discusses the evolution of the hub and spoke network system and the associated price discrimination strategy as the post deregulation dominant business model of the major incumbent airlines and its breakdown in the early 2000s It highlights the role that aircraft as a production input and the aircraft manufacturers strategy have played in shaping this dominant business model in the 1990s Fierce competition between Airbus and Boeing and plummeting new aircraft prices in the early 2000s have fueled low cost competition of unprecedented scope that destroyed the old business model The impact of the manufacturers strategy on these trends has been overlooked by industry observers who have traditionally focused on the demand for air travel and labor costs as the most critical elements in future trends and survivability of major network airlines The book debates the impact and merit of government regulation of the industry It examines uncertainty information problems and interest group structures that have shaped environmental and safety regulations These regulations disregard market signals and deviate from standard economic principles of social efficiency and public interest The Evolution of the US Airline Industry also debates the applicability of traditional antitrust analysis and policies which conflict with the complex dynamics of real life airline competition It questions the regulator s ability to interpret industry conduct in real time let alone predict or change its course towards a desirable direction The competitive response of the low cost startup airlines surprised many antitrust proponents who believed the major incumbent airlines practically blocked significant new entry This creative market response in fact destroyed the major incumbents power to discriminate pricing a task the antitrust efforts failed to accomplish

Global Inequalities Orkan Köyağasıoğlu, 2020-06-24 Globalization is characterized by a systemic interconnection in which what happens inequality has been on the rise across the globe and living conditions are vastly unequal between different places in the world Currently the richest 1% own 45% of the world's wealth The consequence is that some people are able to enjoy healthy wealthy happy lives whilst others continue to live in ill health poverty and sorrow Rapid economic growth in Asia particularly China and India has lifted many people out of extreme poverty Nevertheless the wealth divide is steadily growing According to Oxfam between 2009 and 2018 the number of billionaires it took to equal the wealth of the world's poorest 50 percent fell from 380 to 26 Those with extreme wealth have often accumulated their fortunes on the backs of people around the world who work for poor wages and under dangerous conditions Women are scarce at the top and overrepresented at the bottom Gender discrimination in the workplace contributes significantly to these persistent economic divides There are also large differences in wealth across racial groups Long standing racial discrimination in many forms including in education hiring and pay practices contribute to persistent earnings gaps Inequalities have dramatically strengthened the economic and political power of those individuals at the top
