Hassel, 1998-07-01 While educators parents and policymakers are still debating the pros and cons of school choice it is now possible to learn from choice experiments in public private and charter schools across the country This book examines the evidence from these early school choice programs and looks at the larger implications of choice and competition in education Paul Peterson makes a strong case for school choice in central cities and coeditor Bryan Hassel offers the case for charter schools John E Brandl offers his vision of school governance in the next century The book's other contributors economists political scientists and education specialists provide case studies of the experience with voucher programs in Indianapolis San Antonio Cleveland and Milwaukee survey charter schools analyze public school choice discuss constitutional issues and study the effects of private education on democratic values Contributors include David J Armor George Mason University Chester E Finn Jr and Bruno V Manno Hudson Institute Caroline M Hoxby Harvard University Brett M Peiser Partnerships in Learning and Joseph P Viteritti New York University

Seeing Students Learn Science National Academies of Sciences, Engineering, and Medicine, Division of Behavioral and Social Sciences and Education, Board on Testing and Assessment, Board on Science Education, Heidi Schweingruber, Alexandra Beatty, 2017-03-24 Science educators in the United States are adapting to a new vision of how students learn science Children are natural explorers and their observations and intuitions about the world around them are the foundation for science learning Unfortunately the way science has been taught in the United States has not always taken advantage of those attributes Some students who successfully complete their K 12 science classes have not really had the chance to do science for themselves in ways that harness their natural curiosity and understanding of the world around them The introduction of the Next Generation Science Standards led many states schools and districts to change curricula instruction and professional development to align with the standards Therefore existing assessments whatever their purpose cannot be used to measure the full range of activities and interactions happening in science classrooms that have adapted to these ideas because they were not designed to do so Seeing Students Learn Science is meant to help educators improve their understanding of how students learn science and guide the adaptation of their instruction and approach to assessment It includes examples of innovative assessment formats ways to embed assessments in engaging classroom activities and ideas for interpreting and using novel kinds of assessment information It provides ideas and questions educators can use to reflect on what they can adapt right away and what they can work toward more gradually Educational Testing and Measurement
