Greener Homes for the Future? Great Britain. Parliament. House of Commons. Environmental Audit Committee, 2008 This report examines three overarching issues the impact of the growth of house building targets what sort of homes should be built and where these homes should be built The Committee on Climate Change should assess the impact of the Government's new house building targets for three million new homes by 2020 on the UK's 2020 carbon reduction target In light of the latest economic projections fundamental changes in the mortgage market and falling house prices the Government should review the assumptions on which its target is based And the target for 2 million new homes to be built before the zero carbon target comes into effect in 2016 with a further 1 million to be built afterwards should change to increase significantly the proportion built afterwards Zero carbon homes must source their heat and power from renewable sources Ideally these will come from on site renewable power generation where this is impractical off site renewables should be built or funded The Government should ensure that an excess of land is not made available to developers something which is already leading to greenfield sites being developed in preference to brownfield sites The Government should urgently reintroduce a clear sequential test in favour of brownfield development into planning policy Greater emphasis ought to be placed on energy efficiency and sustainability within the building control regime that inspects new housing The Government should consider introducing higher penalties for developers who fail to meet energy efficiency standards The same environmental tests used for eco towns should be applied to all major housing developments from 2016 The Government should re-examine eco town proposals to ensure they have good public transport links and are located close to commercial centres and employment opportunities UPSC, PSC, SSC, RRB, Banking Examinations English Grammar Part IV Chandan Sengupta, English Communicative is the set of curriculum implemented by different boards of studies to avail a balanced curriculum to be followed by students of such boards of studies These sets of curriculum cover up some of the general streams of studies which are common in terms of the studies of Grammar This set of worksheets and activity resources are meant primarily for students of Grade VI and are prepared accordingly for availing some background study materials to the fellow students Some of such materials are from the conventional study materials prepared by different schools of well-repute Our main objective is to cover up different topics specified for the fellow students of the particular level of study Some fundamental questions often strike our mind Do we speak English properly Do we write a passage properly Do we always remain aware of the rules related to speeches while speaking Do we always claim that whatever presented by us are absolutely correct Obviously not We try to represent our aspirations in writing during several instances We also try to remain stick to rules related to speeches All the time our representations may not be grammatically correct Dialects of American origin are considerably
