Ryan Reetz, 2015-02-19 This text explores how the public purpose doctrine reconciles the often conflicting but equally binding obligations that states have to engage in regulatory sovereignty while honoring host state obligations to protect foreign investment The work examines the multiple permutations and iterations of the public purpose doctrine and concludes that this principle needs to be reconceptualized to meet the imperatives of economic globalization and of a new paradigm of sovereignty that is based on the interdependence and not independence of states It contends that the historical expression of the public purpose doctrine in customary and conventional international law is fraught with fundamental flaws that if not corrected will give rise to disparities in the relationship between investors and states asymmetries with respect to industrialized nations and developing states and ultimately process legitimacy concerns
