

What Is the Real Definition of a True Friendship

Friendship is one of the most precious gifts of life. A person who has a true friend in life is lucky enough friendship makes life thrilling. It makes life a sweet and pleasant experience. Friendship is indeed, an asset in life. It can lead us to success or doom. It all depends on how we choose our friends.

True friendship is a feeling of sharing and caring for one another. It is a feeling that someone understands and appreciates you as who you are, without exaggeration and pretensions. It gives you the feeling that you are 'wanted' and that you are 'someone' and not a faceless being in the crowd. A true friend stands by you thick and thin. A true friendship has no boundaries of caste, creed, or race.

We need to select our friends very carefully. We have to remember the maxim "All that glitters is not gold". In the same manner, we must not be moved by the apparent show of friendship. Many remain with us in the likeness of friends and lead us to the wrong path. Today, the younger generation is a nuisance mainly due to the wrong choice of friends. Friends are something we rely on as humans. They are there on our worst days, and even on our bests.

We even consider some our long-lost siblings. We can't ignore the fact that two humans are brought together based on the strong connection between the two. Since the cons of old friends have only been stated so far something is needed to balance the two out. Both old friends and even new friends share is the chance to make everlasting memories. From the memory of the first meeting that can be remembered years later. New friends will be there for us in the future, and old friends will always be there.
