

The Resurrection (Matthew 28)

Introduction: Read

The Discovery of the Tomb

Early on Sunday morning, Mary Magdalene and another Mary went to visit the tomb where Jesus was buried. They found that the huge stone blocking the tomb's entrance had been rolled away. An angel, shining like lightning and dressed in white, was sitting on the stone. The angel announced that Jesus was not with them; He had risen, just as He had promised.

The Angel's Message

The angel told the women not to be afraid because he knew they were looking for Jesus, who had been crucified. He invited them to see where Jesus' body had been laid and then instructed them to go quickly and tell Jesus' disciples that He had risen from the dead. The angel emphasized that Jesus was going ahead of them into Galilee, where they would see Him.

The Women's Response

Filled with amazement and great joy, the women hurried away from the tomb to deliver the angel's message to the disciples. This moment was significant because it showed their immediate faith and obedience to the divine message they had received. Their experience at the tomb transformed their sorrow into joy and their hope into mission.

Jesus Appears to the Women

As the women were on their way to tell the disciples, Jesus met them. He greeted them, and they approached Him, stopping to kneel and worship Him. Jesus told them not to be afraid and to go and tell His brothers to go to Galilee, where they will see Him.¹ This moment was significant because it underscored the truth of His resurrection.

The Guards' Report

Meanwhile, the guards who had been watching the tomb went to the city and reported to the chief priests everything that had happened. They described the earthquake and the appearance of the angel who rolled away the stone. The guards' testimony added a layer of detail to the events of the resurrection, though it was from a very different perspective.

The Chief Priests' Plot

After hearing the guards' report, the chief priests met with the elders and devised a plan. They gave the soldiers a large sum of money, telling them to say that Jesus' disciples came during the night and stole His body while they were sleeping. This plan was made to prevent the spread of Jesus' resurrection story and to protect their own positions and beliefs.

The Spread of the Resurrection

The women took the money and did as they were instructed. The story was widely spread among the Jews and became a commonly accepted explanation for Jesus' missing body. The chief priests' plot created a counter-narrative to the disciples' proclamation of the resurrection, showing how different groups tried to control the story for their own ends.

Jesus Meets His Disciples

Later, Jesus met with His eleven disciples in Galilee, on a mountain where He had directed them to go. When they saw Him, they worshipped Him, but some still doubted. This meeting was crucial for reaffirming Jesus' relationship with His disciples and for preparing them for the mission He was about to entrust to them.

The Great Commission

During this meeting, Jesus gave His disciples what is known as the Great Commission. He told them, "All authority in heaven and on earth has been given to me. Therefore go and make disciples of all nations, baptizing them in the name of the Father and of the Son and of the Holy Spirit."² This command set the course for the disciples' future work and the spread of Christianity.
