Rewriting the Orient Yunfei Bai,2024-03-15 In this ambitious volume Yunfei Bai delves into the creative adaptations of classical Sanskrit Chinese and Tibetan literary texts by four renowned nineteenth and early twentieth century authors in France and Argentina Thophile Gautier Staphan Mallarmé Victor Segalen and Jorge Luis Borges Without any knowledge of the source languages the authors crafted their own French and Spanish retellings based on received translations of these Asian works Rewriting the Orient not only explores the so far untapped translation rewriting continuum to trace the pivotal role of Orientalism in the formation of a singular corpus of world literature that goes beyond the Anglophone canon but also sheds light on a wide range of innovative discursive strategies that readily challenge traditional notions of cultural appropriation

The World of Ovid's Metamorphoses Joseph B. Solodow,2014-02-01 Synthesizing a wealth of detailed observations Joseph Solodow studies the structure of Ovid's poem Metamorphoses the role of the narrator Ovid's treatment of myth and the relationship between Ovid's and Virgil's presentations of Aeneas He argues that for Ovid metamorphosis is an act of clarification a form of artistic creation and that the metamorphosed creatures in his poem are comparable to works of art These figures ultimately aid us in perceiving and understanding the world

World Literature Today,1980 Hegel on the Modern Arts Benjamin Rutter,2010-07-29 Debates over the end of art have tended to obscure Hegel's work on the arts themselves Benjamin Rutter opens this study with a defence of art's indispensability to Hegel's conception of modernity he then seeks to reorient discussion toward the distinctive values of painting poetry and the novel Working carefully through Hegel's four lecture series on aesthetics he identifies the expressive possibilities particular to each medium Thus Dutch genre scenes animate the everyday with an appearance of vitality metaphor frees language from prose and Goethe's lyrics revive the banal routines of love with imagination and wit Rutter's important study reconstructs Hegel's view not only of modern art but of modern life and will appeal to philosophers literary theorists and art historians alike

Young Adult and Canonical Literature Paula Greathouse,Victor Malo-Juvera,2021-03-10 In the last decade alone the world has changed in seismic ways as marriage equality has been ruled on by the supreme court social justice issues such as metoo and BlackLivesMatter have arisen and issues of immigration and deportation have come to the forefront of politics across the globe. Thus there is a need for an updated text that shares strategies for combining canonical and young adult literature that reflects the changes society has and continues to experience. The purpose of our collection is to offer secondary 6-12 teachers engaging ideas and approaches for pairing young adult and canonical novels to provide unique examinations of topics that teaching either text in isolation could not afford. Our collection does not center canonical texts and most chapters show how both texts complement each other rather than the young adult text being only an extension of the canonical. Within each volume the chapters are organized chronologically according to the publication date of the canonical text. The pairings offered in this collection allow for comparisons in some cases, for extensions in others, and for critique in all.

Narrative Medicine: Trauma and Ethics

Anders Juhl Rasmussen, Morten Sodemann, 2024-05-14. This new volume repositions narrative medicine and trauma studies in a global context with a particular focus on ethics. Trauma is a rapidly growing field of especially literary and cultural studies and the ways in which trauma has asserted its relevance across disciplines which intersect with narrative medicine and how it has come to widen the scope of narrative research and medical practice constitute the principal concerns of this volume. This collection brings together contributions from established and emerging scholars coming from a wide range of academic fields within the faculty of humanities that include literary and media studies, psychology, philosophy, history, anthropology, as well as medical education and health care studies. This crossing of disciplines is also represented by the collaboration between the two editors. Most of the authors in the volume use narrative medicine to refer to the methodology pioneered by Rita Charon and her colleagues at Columbia University, but in some chapters the authors use it to refer to other methodologies and pedagogies utilizing that descriptor. Trauma is today understood both in the restricted sense in which it is used in the mental health field and in its more widespread popular usage in literature. This collection aspires to prolong, deepen, and advance the field of narrative medicine in two important aspects by bringing together both the cultural and the clinical side of trauma and by opening the investigation to a truly global horizon.

Violence in Caribbean Literature

Véronique Maisier, 2014-12-11. Violence in Caribbean Literature: Stories of Stones and Blood. This book looks at the scene of the throwing of a stone found in five novels and uses it as a starting point to an examination of the turmoil of history in the Caribbean: the colonial education imposed on Caribbean populations, the gendered relations that exist today in the Caribbean region, the political status and aspirations of Caribbean nations, and the psychological impact of colonization on Caribbean minds. The trope of the stone and the analysis of the violence it delivers provide the thread that conducts the linked readings of these novels written by Dominican Jean Rhys, Trinidadian Merle Hodge, Guadeloupean Gisèle Pineau, Martinican Patrick Chamoiseau, and Jamaican American Michelle Cliff. The analytical and critical readings of these writers' novels complement each other and draw out their commonalities, echoes, and differences while the juxtaposition of Anglophone and Francophone novels from different Caribbean nations contributes to a polyphonic understanding of the region. While the book offers diversity in the range of countries and languages represented and in the interdisciplinarity of the scholarly fields that intersect in its cultural discussions it maintains its coherence by the unifying theme of violence and its representations in Caribbean literature

The Oxford Handbook of Identities in Organizations Andrew D. Brown, 2020-01-09 Conceived as the meanings that individuals attach to their selves a substantial stockpile of theory related to identities accumulated across the arts social sciences and humanities over many decades continues to nourish contemporary research on self identities in organizations In times which are more reflexive narcissistic and fluid the identities of participants in organizations are increasingly less fixed and less certain making identity issues both more salient and more interesting Particular attention has been given to processes of identity construction often styled identity work Research has focused on how why and when such processes occur and their implications for organizing and individual group and organizational outcomes This has resulted in a burgeoning stream of research from discursive dramaturgical symbolic socio cognitive and psychodynamic perspectives that most often casts individuals efforts to fabricate identities as intentional relational and consequential Seemingly intractable debates centred on the nature of identities their relative stability or fluidity whether they are best regarded as coherent or fractured positive or not and how they are fabricated within relations of power combined with other conceptual issues continue to invigorate the field However these debates have also led to some scepticism regarding the future potential of identities research Yet as the chapters in this Handbook demonstrate there are considerable grounds for optimism that
