Kärin Nickelsen, 2006-09-21 This book is based on a doctoral thesis submitted to the University of Bern in the summer of 2002 Research on the thesis was made possible through a grant provided by the Swiss National Science Foundation SNF from 2000 to 2002 for a project on the history and epistemology of scientific illustrations Project No 1152 059499 Gerd Grahn headed this programme at the University of Bern and made my reworking of the thesis into a book in English possible. He also provided the funding for the services of a professional copy editor Margareta Simons. Bern. The findings presented in this book are closely related to the general results of the SNF project which are published elsewhere; the source material can be consulted in an earlier monograph and in an electronic edition on the internet. The theoretical approach will be more thoroughly investigated in a textbook on the analysis of scientific illustrations. In addition, this study has made use of theoretical concepts developed by Gerd Grahn which in their latest form have yet to be published; these concern primarily the model concept discussed in Chapter 3. The criteria put forward for optimizing scientific illustrations which are dealt with in Chapter 7 were also originally proposed by Gerd Grahn; they were refined and elaborated in the SNF project. Some of the material on the copying links presented in this book was first published in 2 an article in Studies in History and Philosophy of Science Part C while some of the material in Chapter 5 on the hand colouring of illustration was 3 published prior to this book in the Annals of Science. I was able to access source material for this study from several archives and 4 institutions. Most of the images that I examined originated from copies held in the University Library Göttingen while the remaining illustrations came 1. Dangerous Energy Wayne D. Cocroft,2014-06-15 This book comprises a national study of the explosives industry and provides a framework for identification of its industrial archaeology and social history Few monuments of gunpowder manufacture survive in Britain from the Middle Ages although its existence is documented Late 17th century water powered works are identifiable but sparse In the later 18th century however the industry was transformed by state acquisition of key factories notably at Faversham and at Waltham Abbey In the mid 19th century developments in Britain paralleled those in continental Europe and in America namely a shift to production on an industrial scale related to advances in armaments technology The urgency and large scale demands of the two world wars brought state directed or state led solutions to explosives production in the 20th century Yhe book s concluding section looks at planning preservation conservation and presentation in relation to prospective future uses of these sites Interiorscape ,1987 Encyclopaedia Britannica ,1817
