making fewer movies than ever and why are they bigger more expensive and nearly always sequels or recycled ideas Obst writes with affection regret humor and hope and her behind the scenes vantage point allows her to explore what has changed in Hollywood like no one else has This candid insightful account explains what has happened to the movie business and explores whether it'll ever return to making the movies we love the classics that make us laugh or cry or that we just can't stop talking about

Television Fright Films of the 1970s David Deal,2015-01-27 If the made for television movie has long been regarded as a poor stepchild of the film industry then telefilm horror has been the most uncelebrated offspring of all Considered unworthy of critical attention scary movies made for television have received little notice over the years Yet millions of fans grew up watching them especially during the 1970s and remember them fondly This exhaustive survey addresses the lack of critical attention by evaluating such films on their own merits Covering nearly 150 made for TV fright movies from the 1970s the book includes credits a plot synopsis and critical commentary for each From the well remembered Don't Be Afraid of the Dark to the better forgotten Look What's Happened to Rosemary's Baby it's a trustworthy and entertaining guide to the golden age of the televised horror movie

Brueggemann,John McKnight,2016-01-19 Our seduction into beliefs in competition scarcity and acquisition are producing too many casualties We need to depart a kingdom that creates isolation polarized debate an exhausted planet and violence that comes with the will to empire The abbreviation of this empire is called a consumer culture We think the free market ideology that surrounds us is true and inevitable and represents progress We are called to better adapt be more agile more lean more schooled more more more Give it up There is no such thing as customer satisfaction We need a new narrative a shift in our thinking and speaking An Other Kingdom takes us out of a culture of addictive consumption into a place where life is ours to create together This satisfying way depends upon a neighborly covenant an agreement that we together will better raise our children be healthy be connected be safe and provide a livelihood The neighborly covenant has a different language than market hype It speaks instead in a sacred tongue Authors Peter Block Walter Brueggemann and John McKnight invite you on a journey of departure from our consumer market culture with its constellations of empire and control Discover an alternative set of beliefs that have the capacity to evoke a culture where poverty violence and shrinking well being are not inevitable a culture in which the social order produces enough for all They ask you to consider this other kingdom To participate in this modern exodus towards a modern community To awaken its beginnings are all around us An Other Kingdom outlines this journey to construct a future outside the systems world of solutions Character-Based Film
