range of sources in southern Africa and Europe. These include the ANC's own archives and also those of the Stasi, the East German ministry that trained the ANC's security personnel. It reveals that the decision to create the Umkhonto we Sizwe, Spear of the Nation guerrilla army, which later became the ANC's armed wing, was made not by the ANC but by its allies in the South African Communist Party after negotiations with Chinese leader Mao Zedong. In this impressive work, Ellis shows that many of the strategic decisions made and many of the political issues that arose during the course of that protracted armed struggle had a lasting effect on South Africa, shaping its society even up to the present day.
