Climate Change and the World Bank Group World Bank, 2011-01-26 This study from the Independent Evaluation Group draws lessons for development and climate change mitigation from the World Bank Group's far reaching portfolio of projects in energy forestry transport coal power and technology transfer Reviewing what has worked what hasn't and why the evaluation's key findings include Energy efficiency can offer countries direct economic returns that dwarf those of most other development projects while also reducing greenhouse gas emissions Tropical forest protected areas on average significantly reduce tropical deforestation preserving carbon and biodiversity Deforestation rates are lower in areas that allowed sustainable use by local populations than in strictly protected areas Deforestation rates were lowest of all in indigenous forest areas For renewable energy projects long duration loans have been important in making projects financially viable But at prevailing carbon prices carbon offset sales had little impact on most renewable energy projects rate of returns and did not address investors need for up front capital Technology transfer broadly understood to include diffusion of technical and financial innovations related to low carbon development has worked well when the logic of piloting and demonstration is well thought out and when grants are used to mitigate the risk of pioneering efforts

analyse and integrate the key environmental social and economic pillars of sustainability into decision making at all levels from policy to project to investment by government business and industry or international organizations Distilling both published and unpublished materials and with contributions from a range of leading experts organizations and agencies this book will be of significant value to professionals everywhere who are in need of a solid reference guide to what constitutes SA practice and more importantly how and when it can be applied Globalization and the Environment Pete

Newell,2013-04-24 Globalization and the Environment critically explores the actors politics and processes that govern the relationship between globalization and the environment Taking key aspects of globalisation in turn trade production and finance the book highlights the relations of power at work that determine whether globalization is managed in a sustainable way and on whose behalf Each chapter looks in turn at the political ecology of these central pillars of the global economy reviewing evidence of its impact on diverse ecologies and societies its governance the political structures institutions and policy making processes in place to manage this relationship and finally efforts to contest and challenge these prevailing approaches The book makes sense of the relationship between globalisation and the environment using a range of theoretical tools from different disciplines This helps to place the debate about the compatibility between globalisation and sustainability in an explicitly political and historical context in which it is possible to appreciate the nature of interests and power relations that privilege some ways of responding to environmental problems over others in a context of globalisation Structural

Adjustment And The Environment David Reed,2019-06-21 A publication having a provocative avocation as does this book is possible only with the support and sharp minds of many dedicated professionals Contributions from colleagues on five continents enabled this research endeavor to mature from an urgent although poorly formulated idea some three years ago to a serious study of the environmental impacts of policy based lending It is nothing short of a privilege to have benefited from the dedication and support of so many gifted colleagues who helped steer this study through methodological political and logistical thickets of many kinds

Transnational Politics of the Environment Liliana B. Andonova,2003-11-21 A study of the effect of EU membership on Central and Eastern European environmental policy and the interplay of political incentives and industry behavior that determines policy In Transnational Politics of the Environment Liliana Andonova examines the effect of the European Union EU on the environmental policies of Bulgaria the Czech Republic and Poland Compliance with EU environmental regulations is especially onerous for Central and Eastern European countries because of the costs involved and the legacy of pollution from communist era industries But Andonova argues that EU integration has a positive impact on environmental policies in these countries by exerting a strong influence on the environmental interests of regulated industries With her empirical study of chemical safety and air pollution policies from 1990 to 2000 she shows that export competitive industries such as the chemical industry that would benefit from economic integration have an incentive to adopt EU norms By contrast industries such as electric utilities that primarily serve the domestic market remain opposed to EU environmental standards and must be prodded by their own governments to implement environmental protection measures. These differences in domestic interests greatly influence the course of reforms and the adoption of EU standards.

Transnational Politics of the Environment challenges the current focus on intergovernmental cooperation between East and West by highlighting the roles of industries, transnational norms and domestic institutions in promoting change in environmental regulation. It offers a generalizable framework for understanding the politics of environmental regulation in emerging market economies and helps bridge the divide between the study of domestic and international environmental politics.

The World Bank Group's Partnership with the Global Environment Facility The World Bank, 2015-11-18. The World Bank Group was a principal founding partner of the Global Environment Facility (GEF) in its pilot phase in 1991 and of the restructured GEF in 1994. The Bank plays three different roles in the GEF: a) as trustee of the GEF and related trust funds; b) as implementing agency including the implementation of private sector GEF projects by the International Finance Corporation (IFC); and c) as the host organization of the functionally independent GEF secretariat. Focusing primarily on the role of the Bank as an implementing agency, this review documents how the partnership that the GEF and the World Bank Group established in the early 1990s has evolved over time, offers explanations for observed changes, and draws a number of lessons. The review addresses the following issues: The mutual relevance of the World Bank Group and the GEF; Inter-organizational coordination along the World Bank Group GEF project cycle; The introduction of the GEF's resource allocation systems in 2006 and 2010; The evolution and effectiveness of the Bank Group's GEF portfolio; Catalytic approaches in the Bank Group GEF partnership; Co-financing, blending and mainstreaming; The World Bank's corporate activities as a GEF implementing agency. The principal purposes of this review are: a) to help improve the relevance and effectiveness of the Bank Group's partnership with the GEF; and b) to draw lessons for the Bank Group's partnership with the GEF and other large global partnership programs.
