I have never been taught what assessment is so, this subject is being completely new and because of that, everything represents new learning for me. Despite that, in this task I will focus on a specific thing that has caught my attention. Therefore, in the following lines, I will focus on what I have learnt about formative assessment.

Formative assessment is a very important part in the teaching-learning process. If formative assessment is carried out properly, results in summative assessment will be better and students will learn more, even they will learn why they are working by one way and no other or what they are going to be taught or assessed; definitively, they will take more part in their learning process so they will feel involved and they will have more success.

However, it is not easy to develop formative assessment in the classroom. Formative assessment means work hard because teachers have to think and ask students about their needs and interests, teacher have to communicate with the students in order to help them to think and express their ideas and what they have learnt. This communication should be reflective and we have to make students feel secure and comfortable, creating a good environment in the class which facilitates the teaching-learning process. It is also really important to give them personal feedback. Teachers have to understand that feedback is better if it is given personally to each pupil and we have to avoid comparisons because instead of making students improve we do the contrary. I try not to compare students because, at the end, what teachers get by doing this is to confront students.

Finally, I would like to say that it is truly important to let students know what they are going to learn in each unit (learning targets) in order to make them feel part of their own learning process and to foster them to learn and study more. Moreover teacher have to give students clear examples to understand what they are being taught and try to focus instruction on a day-to-day basis because, by this way, we can realized if students are really improving or not and we do not have the necessity of doing written exams in which students feel more nervous and anxious.

The Course Reflection Project Nicole Schonemann, Emily Metzgar, Andrew Libby, 2015-05-01 Service learning is entering a post initiatory phase At tertiary institutions of all types and sizes service learning programs are common and service learning requirements for graduation are growing in popularity Taken together alongside continued faculty interest in effective teaching these factors have raised the visibility and popularity of service learning Now the greater need in service learning is not to prove the need for or efficacy of service learning but to turn the focus squarely back on practice Following established best practice is not enough instructors also need to reflect on how this fits within the specific context and application of each unique course and service learning partnership While there are many excellent resources that detail best practice and showcase exemplary service learning courses faculty reflection and course revision often goes unmentioned In response to the lack of attention on the role of reflection and course revision we convened groups of faculty from a variety of disciplines to reflect deeply on their courses paying specific attention to obstacles and challenges These conversations were converted to articles for this edited collection each chapter representing the process of reflection and revision and serving as a guide to develop effective practice in varied curricular contexts This text contributes to the body of literature on service learning in a unique and practical manner Faculty teaching or interested in teaching service learning classes would benefit from this text as well as university administrators and community service directors involved in service learning at a programmatic and institutional level This book should be marketed to faculty teaching disciplinary service learning classes and service learning pedagogy classes and administrative offices involved in service learning This could be a supplementary text for graduate level pedagogy courses Higher education institutional libraries would benefit from this text as well as the national and state campus compact offices

Handbook of Reflection and Reflective Inquiry Nona Lyons, 2010-04-07 Philosophers have warned of the perils of a life spent without reflection but what constitutes reflective inquiry and why it is necessary in our lives can be an elusive concept Synthesizing ideas from minds as diverse as John Dewey and Paulo Freire the Handbook of Reflection and Reflective Inquiry presents reflective thought in its most vital aspects not as a fanciful or nostalgic exercise but as a powerful means of seeing familiar events anew encouraging critical thinking and crucial insight teaching and learning In its opening pages two seasoned educators Maxine Greene and Lee Shulman discuss reflective inquiry as a form of active attention Thoreau's wide awakeness an act of consciousness and a process by which people can understand themselves their work particularly in the form of life projects and others Building on this foundation the Handbook analyzes through the work of 40 internationally oriented authors Definitional issues concerning reflection what it is and is not Worldwide social and moral conditions contributing to the growing interest in reflective inquiry in professional education Reflection as promoted across professional educational domains including K 12 education teacher education occupational therapy and the law Methods of facilitating and scaffolding reflective engagement Current pedagogical and
