

Topic: How can a manager help a work group to function as an effective team? Discuss the differences between a group and a team, and describe the strategies a manager can use to promote team effectiveness. Use examples to support your discussion.

Conclusion

Effective teams can be built through structured intervention, however it is crucial that management is committed to providing resources and support for effective team building initially and later on so that team members are suitably empowered for decision making. Effective team members have different skill sets that should be blended in by effective leadership so that desired productivity results with increased customer satisfaction, more margins and increased productivity together with empowered and passionate employees who are enthusiastic and committed to positive results. This is the cornerstone hallmark of success in companies like Toyota, Nissan, Harley Davidson, British Airways and small time operators like Southwest Airlines. Olusegun (1998) rightly concludes that group processes become more effective when leader and team members are considered as interdependent to function effectively, and for high degree of efficacy group members traits need to be mined and group members managed to produce cooperative results as an integral team.

Writing a Biomedical Research Paper Brian Budgell,2008-12-05 All of us in biomedicine understand the urgency of getting experimental results into print as quickly as possible Yet this critical step in the cascade from research conception to publication receives almost no attention in our formal training It is as if we have been put to sea without a compass Our collective failure to achieve widespread literacy in our own language Biomedical Language seriously impedes the important process of disseminating new biomedical knowledge and thereby improving the human condition It is also a significant personal concern for researchers and clinicians in the highly competitive publish or perish environment of contemporary academia Of course if we are clever or lucky enough to come up with that Nobel Prize winning discovery great science will carry the day and we are likely to get published even if our writing is fairly horrid But most of us who publish are bread and butter scientists We compete for space in journals which may only accept 10% or 20% of the submissions that they receive each year For us convincing engaging writing will make the difference between being published or rejected or at least it will make the difference between being published on first submission or having to go through a number of revisions or journals None of this is to propose that good writing can make a silk purse out of a sow's ear Scientific content is the sine qua non of biomedical writing
