Working with Experience David Boud, Nod Miller, 2002-11-01 Every day we are confronted with problems and challenges which we address by drawing on our experience and by using this experience to find ways of learning what to do in new circumstances Learning through experience is the normal commonplace approach to learning and we take it for granted Whilst much is known about teaching and being taught far less attention has been given to learning in context in particular to learning outside the classroom Yet this is in fact where most learning takes place One possibly neglected area is the role which people other than the learner play in facilitating learning This role is undertaken not only by teachers trainers parents and counsellors but also by managers supervisors care givers and friends This book brings together the experiences of a number of practitioners who write from often strongly contrasting perspectives Such perspectives include feminism Marxism critical pedagogy post modernism and Gestalt humanistic clinical and transpersonal psychology
