Financial Risk Management bridges the gap between the idealized assumptions used for risk valuation and the realities that must be reflected in management actions. It explains in detailed yet easy to understand terms the analytics of these issues from A to Z and lays out a comprehensive strategy for risk management measurement objectives and hedging techniques that apply to all types of institutions. Written by experienced risk managers, the book covers everything from the basics of present value, forward rates and interest rate compounding to the wide variety of alternative term structure models. Revised and updated with lessons from the 2007-2010 financial crisis, Advanced Financial Risk Management outlines a framework for fully integrated risk management. Credit risk, market risk, asset and liability management and performance measurement have historically been thought of as separate disciplines, but recent developments in financial theory and computer science now allow these views of risk to be analyzed on a more integrated basis. The book presents a performance measurement approach that goes far beyond traditional capital allocation techniques to measure risk-adjusted shareholder value creation and supplements this strategic view of integrated risk with step-by-step tools and techniques for constructing a risk management system that achieves these objectives. Practical tools for managing risk in the financial world. Updated to include the most recent events that have influenced risk management. Topics covered include the basics of present value, forward rates and interest rate compounding, American vs. European fixed income options, default probability models, prepayment models, mortality models and alternatives to the Vasicek model. Comprehensive and in depth, Advanced Financial Risk Management is an essential resource for anyone working in the financial field.

Mononen, 2022-11-10 Both domain general e.g. working memory executive functions and domain specific e.g. number processing phonological processing cognitive factors have been found to predict learning in different age groups Likewise research has shown that various affective factors such as different emotions e.g. anxiety self concept and interest need to be considered when investigating individual differences in learning However few studies have investigated both cognitive and affective factors simultaneously in relation to learning In particular there is a lack of studies investigating the interplay i.e. moderation and mediation between cognitive and affective factors on learning The goal of this Research Topic is to deepen our knowledge on the relations between learning and both cognitive and affective factors in different age groups We aim to provide a broad scope of emerging areas in research on cognitive and affective factors especially related to academic learning e.g. mathematics reading and other school subjects Studies focusing simultaneously looking at the interplay of these constructs as well as longitudinally are of great interest Further we are interested in innovative study designs and recent advances in methodology in this field To promote quality education for all and equity in education cognitive and affective factors related to aspects of learning ranging from pre school to tertiary provision and inclusion of individuals with special educational needs are of interest Energy Research Abstracts, 1986
