Herbal alternatives are being preferred over synthetic medicines nowadays, owing to the side effects exhibited by them. Preliminary investigations of the inhibitory potentials of Tinosporacordifolia leaf extracts against pathogenic bacteria and colon cancer cells were analysed in the current study. Phytochemical analysis showed the presence of various secondary metabolites in the crude leaf extract. Upon studying the antibacterial efficiency of the extracts, the ethyl acetate and methanolic extract showed maximum inhibition against Staphylococcus aureus and Aeromonas hydrophila. 68% of HT29 cells treated with the ethyl acetate extract displayed cytotoxicity. A ladder-like pattern was observed after DNA fragmentation assay was performed, hinting at the apoptosis induced by the ethyl acetate extract.

Key words: Antibacterial, Anti-cancer, DNA fragmentation, Cytotoxicity

INTRODUCTION

Plants are invaluable sources of pharmaceutical products (Sadqui et al., 2006) and are recognized for their ability to produce a wealth of secondary metabolites. Mankind has used many species for centuries to treat a variety of disorders (Olatide 2005). The complex secondary metabolites produced by plants have found various therapeutic uses in medicine. The early history of modern medicine contains descriptions of plant-derived phytochemicals, many of which are still in use for treatment (Rishon 2008). Traditional medicine refers to the knowledge, application, approach and belief in incorporating plant or animal based properties in remedies, singularly or in combination, for the purpose of treating or preventing disease as well as to maintain the well-being of an individual (Mouli et al., 2009). Tinosporacordifolia (Guduchi) is a widely used plant in folk and ayurvedic systems of medicine (Kavitha et al., 2009). It is distributed throughout tropical Indian subcontinent ascending from Himalayas down to the southern part of peninsular India at an altitude of 300m asl. It is also reported in neighboring countries like Bangladesh, Pakistan and Sri Lanka (Preeti 2011). The leaves are membranous, cordate and heart in shape.

The plant is well known, Indian, bitter and prescribed for fevers, diabetes, dyspepsia, jaundice, urinary problems, skin diseases, and chronic diarrhea and dysentery. It has been also indicated useful in the treatment of heart diseases, leprosy, helminthiasis and rheumatoid arthritis. The starch obtained from "guduchisatva" is highly nutritive, digestive and used in many diseases (Kirtikar et al., 1933). The bitter principle present shows antiperiodic, antispasmodic, anti-inflammatory, anti-fertility and antipyretic properties (Dahanukar et al., 1988). T.cordifolia has been reported to treat throat cancer in humans (Nisha et al., 2005). This plant also possesses antimicrobial activity against many pathogenic organisms (Verma et al., 2011). Cancer is the second leading cause of death (Hoyer et al., 2005), where one in four deaths is due to cancer. Cancer is a major public health burden in both developed and developing countries. It was estimated that there were 10.9 million new cases, 6.7 million deaths, and 24.6 million persons living with cancer (Parkin et al., 2002). The use of plant products in the treatment of cancer has been of recent interest (Bauer 2000). In the current study, the leaf extracts of the plant was subjected to phytochemical studies and its antibacterial and anticancer properties were recorded.

MATERIALS AND METHODS

Plant Material Collection

The fresh leaves of Tinosporacordifolia were collected from Irular Tribal Women Welfare Institute, Thandrai, Chengalpeta, Chennai, Tamil Nadu, India. The plant specimen was identified by Dr. Narasimhan, Department of Botany, Madras Christian College, Chennai. The collected plant leaves were allowed for shade drying for 4 days completely. The dried samples were powdered with electrical blender and made into coarse powder and used for further extraction.

Cell Line

The colon cancer cell line HT 29 was procured from National Centre for Cell Line Sciences (NCCS) Pune.

Sequential extraction

About 50 gm of dry sample was weighed and macerated with 200 ml of hexane separately and kept overnight in shaker. The extract was collected after filtration using Whatman No:1 filter paper and was stored. Another 200 ml of ethyl acetate was added to the residual mixture and incubated in shaker for 24 hours and the extract was collected again using a Whatman No:1 filter paper. This procedure was repeated once again with methanol and the extract was evaporated (Manjimalai 2011), which was used for further phytochemical analysis, antimicrobial activity and anticancer activity.

interpersonal interactions social adjustment emotional well being and mental health among children and adolescents has drawn growing attention from academics practitioners parents educators and policymakers Worldwide it is agreed that social and emotional development is a result of individual context interactions Particularly socialization perspectives regard parenting as the primary factor that shapes child and adolescent development to a large extent Meanwhile the ecological perspective highlights the bi directional nature of interactions between children and parents by which they affect each other Parenting can be parents active socialization actions that influence their children s development i e parent effect it can also be parents reactions to their children s social and emotional functioning i e child effect

The role of evidence in developing effective educational inclusion Joseph Mintz,Brahm Norwich,2023-12-13 There has been considerable interest internationally in how research can be effectively translated to have an impact on practice in schools The application of evidence informed approaches in the field of education is contested and debated Such debates are intensified in relation to the issue of how best to include children with diverse learning needs in the classroom The role of knowledge science and evidence in how we both conceptualize and best support children with special educational needs and other forms of diversity in the classroom remains an open question in terms of both policy and practice Although there is a considerable and growing body of literature on evidence informed practice in education in general there has been less attention paid to its implications for the domain of educational inclusion specifically However tensions between differing conceptualisations of difference and the role of categorisation present questions as yet not fully answered as to the ways in which evidence can and should articulate with practice in this specific domain For example issues of what is inclusion the place of norms and values that define inclusion how we conceptualize and think about difference across culture language and cognition are raised when we think about the application of evidence to practice in the area of educational inclusion

The Application of the Third Generation of Cognitive-Behavioral Approaches to Parenting Helena Moreira,Eva S. Potharst,Maria Cristina Canavarro,2019-12-10 In recent years there has been growing interest in understanding how the third generation of cognitive behavioral approaches particularly mindfulness compassion and acceptance based approaches can contribute to the design of more efficacious parenting interventions and to a better understanding of parenting behaviors and the parent child relationship However the application of third generation cognitive behavioral therapies and concepts to parenting is still in its infancy and further research is needed to explore the potential of these approaches to enhance existing parenting interventions or to inform the development of new parenting interventions targeting different groups of parents and their children More research is also needed to understand how mindfulness self compassion acceptance and other related psychological processes may influence parenting practices the parent child relationship and the child s socioemotional development With this e book presenting state of the art research articles on third generation cognitive behavioral approaches a new step is taken in 1 exploring relations between parenting related issues and concepts from the third generation cognitive behavioral framework and 2 examining parenting interventions informed by third generation cognitive behavioral therapies

Parents with Mental and/or Substance Use Disorders and their Children, volume III Anja Wittkowski,Joanne Nicholson,Jean Lillian Paul ,Geneviève Piché,2025-07-30 Families living with parental mental and or substance use disorders continue to face considerable biopsychosocial challenges with complex pathways to mitigating risk enhancing resilience and supporting recovery An ecological life span approach to improving outcomes for all family members infants children adolescents and adults who are parents requires careful consideration of sociocultural conditions life stages and developmental ages alongside family focused needs goals and plans In addition community contexts policy developments and practice innovation play roles in contributing to the wellbeing and functioning of all family members The risk conveyed to all family members by parental mental and or substance use disorders is great Fortunately the opportunities to intervene are plentiful and varied However in many cases interventions are unspecified untested and not brought to scale in regional state or national initiatives We may have the requisite knowledge to inform policy and practice but this evidence may not be applied to effect innovation or change suggesting the need for widespread knowledge translation and dissemination efforts with significant potential to improve public mental health

How Children Learn from Parents and Parenting Others in Formal and Informal Settings: International and Cultural Perspectives, 2nd Edition Yvette Renee Harris,Claudio Longobardi,2020-07-28 For several decades parent child cognitive interaction researchers have acknowledged that children learn cognitive skills in the context of their social and early environments These cognitive skills are often imparted to the children by parents or parenting others in formal or informal settings Thus for example such informal settings as dinner table conversations walks through grocery stores museums or neighborhoods become rich laboratories for children to learn varied cognitive skills ranging from numeracy concepts and language The way in which those learning opportunities are provided by parents structured by parents and scaffolded by parents may well vary depending on culture and other socio demographic variables and may well vary depending on formal or informal settings The aim of this Research Topic is to bring together scholarship from both global north and global south contexts which explores how children learn via parental involvement in formal and informal settings Publisher s note In this 2nd edition the following article has been added Harris YR and Longobardi C 2020 Editorial How Children Learn From Parents and Parenting Others in Formal and Informal Settings International and Cultural Perspectives Front Psychol 11 1026 doi 10 3389 fpsyg 2020 01026
