WIP: The Executioners Three (TET)

I'm avoiding writing. I don't know why — once I start, I tend to get in the zone and this next scene should be exciting. I guess I'm scared. It's daunting — completely rewriting a book. AGAIN. There is time #3 and I feel like I don't quite have Fiddle's voice — maybe I'm trying too hard on not hard enough. It feels kinda meh is all I know. Plus, I don't have Simon's voice at all... But HEY, soooz Did you have Sam or Sasha right away? No. It took some false starts and rewrites. So why are you expecting so much? All I need to do is hammer out a scene a day until I leave for Australia (or hit 100 pages). If I can get 16 pages/day, I'll reach my goal by November. Remember: there's no real rush here. Truthswitch is on submissions, Karen can WAIT for this, and book 3 is all done. Books take time, soooz. Patience.

Now, go write the next scene. ♥

HOURS LATER: Okay. ~900 words and some ~~more~~ editing of scene 1 later, and I'm trying to psych myself up to scene #3. I have a total of 10-11 pages, which puts me EXACTLY on track. But I'd rather get AHEAD of track. ☺ that reflect on their learning has become a widespread pedagogical practice in recent years. However, the scholarly literature does not address certain key questions about how journal writing aids learning. Is there something inherent in journal writing that encourages students to write reflectively? What psycholinguistic or cognitive factors help to explain the power of journal writing? Why do some students use journals to write prolifically and creatively while others limit their responses to summarizing the assigned course reading? Why do teachers find some journal entries so much more engaging than others? How do teachers' ways of responding to journals affect their students' development as writers and thinkers? This book addresses such questions through a careful analysis of the journal writing of the students in the author's ESL classes at a large urban college. It contains detailed case studies of five culturally and linguistically diverse students with widely differing responses to journal writing. To teachers of composition for both first and second language students and to teachers of graduate courses in education and qualitative research, this book offers a contextualized description of journal writings as a complex social activity. By emphasizing the need for educators to reexamine their pedagogy and to learn from their students, Conversations of the Mind is an indispensable contribution to the emerging literature of teacher research and reflective practice.
