

A Sample Qualitative Research Proposal Written in the APA 6th Style

[Note: This sample proposal is based on a composite of past proposals, simulated information and references, and material I've included for illustration purposes – it is based roughly on fairly standard research proposal; I say roughly because there is no one set way of doing a qualitative research proposal. Much of its design is based on the nature of the research, your preferences, and your decisions about how to describe or portray what it is you plan to accomplish. The material in this document was adopted primarily from a dissertation proposal created by Dr. Nancy Gadbow. A biography is not included in this sample proposal. To examine ways of creating references in the APA format and other suggestions for using the APA stylistic guide, see <http://www-distance.syr.edu/apas6th.html> or <http://www-distance.syr.edu/apas6th.pdf> . Introduction

In recent years an increasing number of adult students are on college campuses seeking undergraduate degrees, filling some of the seats formerly occupied by the traditional, 18-22-year-old students (Apps, 1981; Cross, 1981; Leckie, 1988). Cross (1981) notes that part-time students make up the greater part of this increase. Indeed the number of full-time adult students is still quite small, particularly at four-year colleges and universities. While universities are noticing the presence of mature adults in their full-time study sequences, the number of adults interested and available for full-time study is still small (Rauch, 1991, p. 11).

It is this small number of full-time adult undergraduates that interests me, because there is the distinct possibility that this group will continue to grow in numbers. As the economic picture has changed dramatically in recent years, the number of adults "available" for full-time study has also changed. Certainly the increased unemployment figures, as well as the declining job opportunities available in many regions of the country, have affected this number.

In addition to the loss of a job and the possible need for additional education to obtain new skills, other factors are present:

- the decision to enter the job market and the need to "brush up" or develop new skills
- early retirement and the decision to embark on another career
- a change in one's life situation (divorce, widowhood), which results in a career decision and the corresponding need for additional education
- increased acceptability for adults, particularly women, to return to school (Apps, 1981).
- a change in one's life situation (divorce, widowhood), which results in a career decision and the corresponding need for additional education
- increased acceptability for adults, particularly women, to return to school (Apps, 1981).

Social Research Methodology and New Techniques in Analysis.

Interpretation, and Writing Islam, M. Rezaul, 2018-12-07 The importance of scientific investigation and research is becoming more pronounced in today's society with many organizations relying on this research to make informed decisions. As such, research methodology courses have been integrated into undergraduate and master's programs at most academic institutions where students are being challenged to conduct and write research. Social Research Methodology and New Techniques in Analysis: Interpretation and Writing is a pivotal reference source that provides vital research on the main concepts of research writing including the guidelines of research methodology and proposal designing. While highlighting topics such as mixed method research, research objectives, and project proposals, this publication provides examples of eight PhD proposals and the frameworks used in organizing qualitative, quantitative, and mixed method research. This book is ideally designed for graduate level students, academicians, researchers, educators, scholars, education administrators, and policymakers seeking current research on the key steps and techniques used in organizing social research proposals.

How to Write about Economics and Public Policy Katerina Petchko, 2018-07-12 How to Write about Economics and Public Policy is designed to guide graduate students through conducting and writing about research on a wide range of topics in public policy and economics. This guidance is based upon the actual writing practices of professional researchers in these fields, and it will appeal to practitioners and students in disciplinary areas such as international economics, macroeconomics, development economics, public finance, policy studies, policy analysis, and public administration. Supported by real examples from professional and student writers, the book helps students understand what is expected of writers in their field and guides them through choosing a topic for research to writing each section of the paper. This book would be equally effective as a classroom text or a self-study resource. Teaches students how to write about qualitative and quantitative research in public policy and economics in a way that is suitable for academic consumption and that can drive public policy debates. Uses the genre-based approach to writing to teach discipline-appropriate ways of framing problems, designing studies, and writing and structuring content. Includes authentic examples written by students and international researchers from various sub-disciplines of economics and public policy. Contains strategies and suggestions for textual analysis of research samples to give students an opportunity to practice key points explained in the book. Is based on a comprehensive analysis of a research corpus containing 400 research articles in various areas of public policy and economics. Doing Qualitative Research David Silverman, 2013-04-22 In the fourth edition of his best-selling textbook, David Silverman provides a step-by-step guide to planning and conducting qualitative research. Using real examples from real postgraduate students, the book makes it easy to link theory to methods and shows how to move from understanding the principles of qualitative research to doing it yourself. The new edition has been fully updated and now includes a brand new chapter on formulating a research question appropriate for qualitative research, an expanded discussion of the role of theory in research, extended discussion of case study research, and the number of cases needed for effective qualitative research, further coverage of focus
