

Mark Band	Description	Likely Characteristics
22 - 25	The essay synthesises information from all relevant study areas to answer the question in full. There is some in-depth analysis and balanced debate of the issues with correct use of technical language and factual information throughout, demonstrating a clear understanding of the subject matter. A range of accurate practical examples predominantly taken from relevant scientific units supports the vast majority of points.	A well structured essay with continuous prose. Predominantly accurate use of spelling, punctuation and grammar. Correct use of terminology. Clear, concise and relevant throughout.
18 - 21	The essay synthesises information from most of the relevant study areas to address the key issues raised in the question. A good understanding is demonstrated through a good use of technical language, some detailed analysis and balanced debate of key points. Factual information and accurate examples, many taken from relevant scientific units, are used in support of points made.	A well structured essay with predominantly accurate use of spelling, punctuation and grammar. Correct use of terminology. Clear and concise but may occasionally make an irrelevant comment.
14 - 17	The answer synthesises information from a limited number of study areas in an attempt to address the key issues raised in the question. A sound understanding is demonstrated through the use of some technical language, factual information and relevant practical examples, some of which are taken from scientific units. Some analysis and debate is evident, although this may be lacking both in depth and balance.	An obvious attempt to structure the essay. Fundamentally sound use of terminology. Generally clear and concise with limited inaccuracies. Satisfactory spelling, punctuation and grammar.
10 - 13	An essay that addresses a limited number of key issues but lacks the depth of synoptic rigour required. There is little evidence of analysis and technical language, although some basic understanding of the subject area is demonstrated. Relevant points may be supported by examples but only partially developed.	A basic structure is evident. Some incorrect use of terminology. There may be errors in spelling, punctuation and grammar. A number of inaccuracies.
7 - 9	An essay that fails to address many parts of the question. There is little evidence of synoptic analysis with sweeping statements that may contain some relevant information but generally remain unsupported by evidence or accurate examples and suggest limited understanding. Irrelevant points and repetition may be used to pad out the answer.	A poorly structured essay in which there may be errors in spelling, punctuation and grammar. Incorrect use of terminology. A significant proportion of material is irrelevant.
0 - 6	An essay that mostly fails to address the question and contains many inaccuracies and irrelevancies. Very little evidence of synoptic analysis with statements that demonstrate a lack of understanding.	A poorly structured essay. Incorrect spelling, punctuation and grammar. Incorrect use of terminology. Many inaccuracies.

Stones And Bones Mark Scheme 2007:

Stone Tools and Fossil Bones Manuel Domínguez-Rodrigo, 2012-03-26 International archaeologists examine early Stone Age tools and bones to present the most holistic view to date of the archaeology of human origins Interdisciplinary Approaches to the Oldowan Erella Hovers, David R. Braun, 2009-03-08 An understanding of the uniquely human behavior of stone tool making tackles questions about hominins ability to culturally transmit and expand their base of social and practical knowledge and their cognitive capacities for advanced planning The appearance of stone tools has often been viewed as a threshold event impacting directly and profoundly the later course of cultural and social evolution Alternatively it has been understood as a prelude to significant succeeding changes in behavioral social and biological evolution of hominins This book presents a series of recent enquiries into the technological and adaptive significance of Oldowan stone tools While anchored in a long research tradition these studies rely on recent discoveries and innovative analyses of the archaeological record of ca 2 6 1 0 million years ago in Africa and Eurasia dealing with the earliest lithic industries as manifestations of hominin adaptations and as expressions of hominin cognitive abilities Making a Mark Andrew Meirion Jones, Marta Díaz-Guardamino, 2019-03-31 The visual imagery of Neolithic Britain and Ireland is spectacular While the imagery of passage tombs such as Knowth and Newgrange are well known the rich imagery on decorated portable artefacts is less well understood How does the visual imagery found on decorated portable artefacts compare with other Neolithic imagery such as passage tomb art and rock art How do decorated portable artefacts relate chronologically to other examples of Neolithic imagery Using cutting edge digital imaging techniques the Making a Mark project examined Neolithic decorated portable artefacts of chalk stone bone antler and wood from three key regions southern England and East Anglia the Irish Sea region Wales the Isle of Man and eastern Ireland and Northeast Scotland and Orkney Digital analysis revealed for the first time the prevalence of practices of erasure and reworking amongst a host of decorated portable artefacts changing our understanding of these enigmatic artefacts Rather than mark making being a peripheral activity we can now appreciate the central importance of mark making to the formation of Neolithic communities across Britain and Ireland The volume visually documents and discusses the contexts of the decorated portable artefacts from each region discusses the significance and chronology of practices of erasure and reworking and compares these practices with those found in other Neolithic contexts such as passage tomb art rock art and pottery decoration A contribution from Antonia Thomas also discusses the settlement art and mortuary art of Orkney while Ian Dawson and Louisa Minkin contribute with a discussion of the collaborative fine art practices established during the project The Archaeology of the Lower City and Adjacent Suburbs Jenny Mann, Alan Vince, Jane Young, 2016-04-30 This volume contains reports on excavations undertaken in the lower walled city at Lincoln which lies on sloping ground on the northern scarp of the Witham gap and its adjacent suburbs between 1972 and 1987 and forms a companion volume to LAS volumes 2 and 3 which cover other parts of the historic city The earliest features encountered were discovered both near to the line of Ermine Street and towards Broadgate Remains of timber storage buildings were found probably associated with the Roman legionary occupation in the later 1st century AD The earliest occupation of the hillside after the foundation of the colonia towards the end of the century consisted mainly of commercial premises modest residences and storage buildings It seems likely that the boundary of the lower enclosure was designated before it was fortified in the later 2nd century with the street pattern belonging to the earlier part of the century Larger aristocratic residences came to dominate the hillside with public facilities fronting on to the line of the zigzagging main route In the 4th century the fortifications were enlarged and two new gates inserted Examples of so called Dark Earth deposits were here dated to the very latest phases of Roman occupation Elements of some Roman structures survived to be reused in subsequent centuries There are hints of one focus in the Middle Saxon period in the area of St Peter s church but occupation of an urban nature did not recommence until the late 9th century with the first phases of Anglo Scandinavian occupation recorded here Sequences of increasingly intensive occupation from the 10th century were identified with plentiful evidence for industrial activity including pottery metalworking and other crafts as well as parish churches Markets were established in the 11th century and stone began to replace timber for residential structures from the mid 12th century with clear evidence of the quality of some of the houses With the decline in the city s fortunes from the late 13th century the fringe sites became depopulated and there was much rebuilding elsewhere including some fine new houses There was a further revival in the later post medieval period but much of the earlier fabric and surviving stretches of Roman city wall were swept away in the 19th century

Bronze Age Worlds Robert Johnston,2020-10-26 Bronze Age Worlds brings a new way of thinking about kinship to the task of explaining the formation of social life in Bronze Age Britain and Ireland Britain and Ireland s diverse landscapes and societies experienced varied and profound transformations during the twenty fifth to eighth centuries BC People s lives were shaped by migrations changing beliefs about death making and thinking with metals and living in houses and field systems This book offers accounts of how these processes emerged from social life from events places and landscapes informed by a novel theory of kinship Kinship was a rich and inventive sphere of culture that incorporated biological relations but was not determined by them Kinship formed personhood and collective belonging and associated people with nonhuman beings things and places The differences in kinship and kinwork across Ireland and Britain brought textures to social life and the formation of Bronze Age worlds Bronze Age Worlds offers new perspectives to archaeologists and anthropologists interested in the place of kinship in Bronze Age societies and cultural development

The Trace-Fossil Record of Major Evolutionary Events M. Gabriela Mángano,Luis A. Buatois,2016-11-17 This volume addresses major evolutionary changes that took place during the Mesozoic and the Cenozoic These include discussions on major evolutionary radiations and ecological innovations on land and at sea such as the Mesozoic marine revolution the Mesozoic radiation of vertebrates the Mesozoic lacustrine revolution the Cenozoic radiation of mammals the evolution of paleosol biotas and the evolution of hominins The roles of mass extinctions at the end of the Triassic and at the end of the Cretaceous are assessed This volume set provides innovative reviews of the major evolutionary events in the history of life from an ichnologic perspective Because the long temporal range of trace fossils has been commonly emphasized biogenic structures have been traditionally overlooked in macroevolution However comparisons of ichnofaunas through geologic time do reveal the changing ecology of organism substrate interactions The use of trace fossils in evolutionary paleoecology represents a new trend that is opening a window for our understanding of major evolutionary radiations and mass extinctions Trace fossils provide crucial evidence for the recognition of spatial and temporal patterns and processes associated with paleoecologic breakthroughs
