Selected Stories of Rabindranath Tagore: Our needs are always in a hurry. They rush and hustle; they are rude and unceremonious; they have no surplus of leisure, no patience for anything else but fulfilment of purpose. We frequently see in our country at the present day men utilising empty kerosene cans for carrying water. These cans are emblems of discourtesy; they are curt and abrupt; they have not the least shame for their unmannerliness; they do not care to be ever so slightly more than useful.
