Interviewer: Why do you like it so much?
Paul: There are several <sup>2</sup> _____ why I love living there. It's close to my office and it only takes me five minutes to walk there. And I have my own room on the first <sup>3</sup> _____. It's tiny but just right for me.

Reading

- 8 Read the article about sharing accommodation. Match the headings A–G to the paragraphs 1–6. There is one extra heading.

Starting university?

First time living away from home?

Sharing accommodation with other students?

Here are some tips for successful house sharing.

- 1 _____
▶ Living with other people can be difficult, whether your housemates are close friends or people you hardly know. Don't choose a housemate just because they're great fun. Think about day-to-day living. Will they pay their share of the rent on time? Will they get on with your friends? If you decide to share with someone you hardly know, always ask for personal references first.
- 2 _____
▶ Establish the rules early – is it okay to borrow clothes, use someone else's phone or personal computer? Always ask before you borrow anything from a housemate, and make sure you take good care of it.
- 3 _____
▶ If any of your housemates are good cooks and you're out, let them cook and you do the dishes. It may be a good idea to set up a schedule for household tasks, taking turns to clean the bathroom, etc.
- 4 _____
▶ Try to agree on a minimum standard of cleanliness that you can all stick to. You don't have to be a 'neat freak', but don't leave dirty clothes in the sink or make a mess all over the bedroom, especially if you're sharing with a roommate.
- 5 _____
▶ Different people have different ideas about day-to-day living. You can't ask your housemates to change themselves if you're not willing to change as well. Listen to what your housemates have to say and find solutions everyone is happy with.
- 6 _____
▶ Spend time with your housemates and take an interest in what they're doing. Try to find time to be together, maybe just to hang out or to watch a movie. Then you'll get to know your housemates better.

- A Be prepared to compromise.
B Respect each other's property.
C Focus on behaviour, not personality.
D Tidy up after yourself.
E Choose your housemates carefully.
F Communicate with each other.
G Divide responsibilities.
