

Moving BIG Exercises

Parkinson's Disease (PD) often impacts the feedback system in the brain. You may feel like your body is moving normally but all of your movements are actually very small. You may be taking smaller steps, decreasing your arm swing while you walk, and your writing may be smaller. Research has shown that by exaggerating the bigness of movements over and over, people with PD can retrain their brains and have their movements be more normal.

Exercise plan

- For safety, do these exercises close to a sturdy surface such as kitchen countertop or the back of couch. If you have any balance problems, you can hold onto the counter or couch.
- Do these exercises _____ times each day.

Exercises

☐ Marching

- Stand with your feet shoulder width apart while holding on to a sturdy surface with one or both hands.
- Lift your left knee up as high as you safely can. Then lower it back down.
- Lift your right knee up as high as you can. Then lower it back down.
- Repeat 10 to 15 times. Pay attention to the BIG movements.
