Ohiodot Survey Manual:

Survey Manual Ohio. Office of Aerial Engineering, Ohio. Department of Transportation, 1995 A Guidebook for Performance-based Transportation Planning Cambridge Systematics, 2000 This is The purpose of this guidebook is to help organizations improve the development implementation and management of their transportation plans and programs By adding an element of performance measurement and monitoring to existing transportation planning processes agencies can obtain better information about the performance of their existing programs and services Performance based planning provides a process and tools to identify and assess alternative programs projects and services with respect to overall transportation plan goals and objectives Ch 1 Overview p 3

Investigation of Early Distress in Wisconsin Rubblized Pavements Irene K. Battaglia, 2011 Report, 2010 Criteria for Restoration of Longitudinal Barriers Hampton Clay Gabler, Douglas J. Gabauer, Carolyn E. Hampton, 2010 TRB's National Cooperative Highway Research Program NCHRP Report 656 Criteria for Restoration of Longitudinal Barriers explores the identification of levels of damage and deterioration to longitudinal barriers that require repairs to restore operational performance

Assessing the Long-term Performance of Mechanically Stabilized Earth Walls Travis M. Gerber, 2012 Mechanically stabilized earth MSE walls are an important class of infrastructure assets whose long term performance depends on various factors As with most all other classes of assets MSE walls need periodic inspection and assessment of performance To date some agencies have established MSE wall monitoring programs whereas others are looking for guidance tools and funding to establish their own monitoring programs The objective of this synthesis project is to determine how transportation agencies monitor assess and predict the long term performance of MSE walls The information used to develop this synthesis came from a literature review together with a survey and interviews Of the 52 U S and 12 Canadian targeted survey recipients 39 and five respectively responded This synthesis reveals that unlike bridges and pavements MSE walls and retaining walls in general are often overlooked as assets Fewer than one quarter of state level transportation agencies in the United States have developed some type of MSE wall inventory beyond that which may be captured as part of their bridge inventories Fewer still have the methods and means to populate their inventories with data from ongoing inspections from which assessments of wall performance can be made In the United States there is no widely used consistently applied system for managing MSE walls Wall inventory and monitoring practices vary between agencies This synthesis examines existing practices concerning the nature scope and extent of existing MSE wall inventories It also examines the collection of MSE wall data including the types of performance data collected how they are maintained in wall inventories and databases the frequency of inventory activities and assessment practices relevant to reinforcement corrosion and degradation Later parts of this synthesis discuss how MSE wall performance data are assessed interpreted and used in asset management decisions This synthesis finds that the most well implemented wall inventory and assessment system in the United States is the Wall Inventory Program developed by FHWA for the National Park Service However this system like some others uses condition narratives in a process that can be somewhat cumbersome and subjective Other systems use more direct numeric scales to describe wall conditions and an advantage of such systems is that they are often compatible with those used in assessments of bridges As experience with MSE walls accumulates agencies will likely continue to develop refine and better calibrate procedures affecting design construction condition assessment and asset management decisions One portion of this synthesis is dedicated to summarizing the actions taken thus far by survey respondents to improve the long term performance of their MSE walls Many agencies prescribe the use of a pre approved wall design and or wall supplier Other actions or policies frequently focus on drainage related issues Summary Extent of Highway Capacity Manual Use in Planning Richard Gerhard Dowling,Aaron Elias,2012 TRB s National Cooperative Highway Research Program NCHRP Synthesis 427 Extent of Highway Capacity Manual Use in Planning assesses how state departments of transportation small and large metropolitan planning organizations and local governments are using or might use the Highway Capacity Manual for planning analyses or more specifically for performance monitoring problem identification project prioritization programming and decision making processes Fort Carson Grow the Army Stationing Decisions ,2009 Review of PCR Methodology Chhote Saraf,1998

Design, Construction, and Maintenance of PCC Pavement Joints Kenneth H. McGhee,National Cooperative Highway Research Program,1995 This synthesis report will be of special interest to pavement engineers and pavement construction and maintenance personnel responsible for portland cement concrete PCC pavement joints Still pertinent information from NCHRP Synthesis 19 1973 as well as new or updated information in the areas of joint design construction and maintenance are included This report of the Transportation Research Board records the state of the practice with respect to the design construction and maintenance of PCC pavement joints In addition information on joint materials and sealing the control of water on and in pavements and the evaluation of pavement joint performance is provided Urban Soils Rattan Lal,B. A. Stewart,2017-10-18 Globally 30% of the world population lived in urban areas in 1950 54% in 2016 and 66% projected by 2050 The most urbanized regions include North America Latin America and Europe Urban encroachment depletes soil carbon and the aboveground biomass carbon pools enhancing the flux of carbon from soil and vegetation into the atmosphere Thus urbanization has exacerbated ecological and environmental problems Urban soils are composed of geological material that has been drastically disturbed by anthropogenic activities and compromised their role in the production of food aesthetics of residential areas and pollutant dynamics Properties of urban soils are normally not favorable to plant growth the soils are contaminated by heavy metals and are compacted and sealed Therefore the quality of urban soils must be restored to make use of this valuable resource for delivery of essential ecosystem services e g food water and air quality carbon sequestration temperature moderation biodiversity Part of the Advances in Soil Sciences Series Urban Soils explains properties of urban soils assesses the effects of urbanization on the cycling of carbon nitrogen and water and the impacts of management of urban soils soil restoration urban agriculture and food security evaluates ecosystem services provisioned by urban soils and describes synthetic and artificial soils      Pavement Management Practices Dale E. Peterson, National Research Council (U.S.). Transportation Research Board, 1987 This synthesis will be of interest to pavement designers maintenance engineers and others responsible for the management of highway pavements Information is presented on pavement management systems the established documented procedures used to treat all activities involved in providing and sustaining pavements in an acceptable condition As highway agencies focus more attention on maintenance and rehabilitation of highway networks the use of some form of a pavement management system becomes increasingly important This report of the Transportation Research Board describes the features applicability and use of a pavement management system and recommends five general steps for implementing a new pavement management system or improving an existing system      Monthly Catalog of United States Government Publications ,1998-07      Urban Mass Transportation Abstracts ,1982      Transit Research Abstracts National Research Council (U.S.).
