Transforming the Curriculum Through the Arts Robyn Gibson, Robyn Ewing, 2020-12-14 This textbook highlights the unique role that quality Arts processes and experiences can and should play across the curriculum to ensure that all learners' creativities and imaginations flourish. It provides much needed strategies, units of work and practical resources in six arts disciplines: visual arts, literature, drama, music, dance and media arts. It is a must read for those keen to develop research informed, integrated arts rich learning and teaching strategies while also exploring each discipline. Alongside the four Cs: critical thinking, communication, collaboration and creativity, the authors propose four additional Cs: curiosity, compassion, connection and courage as much needed 21st century capabilities. The book speaks to the current debates on STEAM vs STEM education and provides an important framework for preservice and experienced classroom teachers including arts specialists.

Retelling Stories, Framing Culture John Stephens, Robyn McCallum, 2013-01-11 What happens to traditional stories when they are retold in another time and cultural context and for a different audience? This first of its kind study discusses Bible stories, classical myths, heroic legends, Arthurian romances, Robin Hood lore, folk tales, oriental tales and other stories derived from European cultures. One chapter is devoted to various retellings of classics from Shakespeare to Wind in the Willows. The authors offer a general theory of what motivates the retelling of stories and how stories express the aspirations of a society. An important function of stories is to introduce children to a cultural heritage and to transmit a body of shared allusions and experiences that expresses a society's central values and assumptions. However, the cultural heritage may be modified through a pervasive tendency of retellings to produce socially conservative outcomes because of ethnocentric, androcentric and class based assumptions in the source stories that persist into retellings. Therefore, some stories such as classical myths are particularly resistant to feminist reinterpretations, for example, while other types such as folktales are more malleable. In examining such possibilities, the book evaluates the processes of interpretation apparent in retellings. Index included.

Global Citizenship Mary Young, Eilish Commings, 2002 Global Citizenship is not an additional subject but a way of teaching the existing curriculum which promotes social justice and equity. This handbook explains Global Citizenship and develops its principles into clear practical pointers for use in school. By discussing the issues, ideas and approaches in this handbook, users will be able to explore and develop their own understanding of Global Citizenship. Teachers will be able to bring its concepts into their educational practice through every subject area, into assemblies and across the whole school. The handbook will be a valuable tool for classroom teachers, head teachers, teacher educators, student teachers and home school educators. It will also be of interest to non-teaching staff, governors, school board members and parents. Global Citizenship: The Handbook for Primary Teaching contains an exploration of issues for In Service Training and strategies for implementing whole school change, ideas and activities for assemblies and classroom work, specific sections mapping Global Citizenship to subject areas for England, Scotland and Wales, a wide range of activities to deliver subject
