State of State Standards 2000 Chester E. Finn, Jr., Michael J. Petrilli, 2000-08 Examines several questions about education How good are state academic standards How many states now match solid standards with strong school accountability Are they better than two years ago Chapters overview essay The State of Standards in 2000 analytic essays by reviewers English by Sandra Stotsky history by David W Saxe Geography by Susan Munroe Mathematics by Ralph A Raimi Science by Lawrence S Lerner state documents examined school based accountability 30 charts tables Making Standards Useful in the Classroom Robert J. Marzano, Mark W. Haystead, 2008 It s true that state standards often have way too much content and aren t written in a way that enhances classroom instruction and formative assessment That s why this guide is invaluable for any educator who wants to ensure that standards actually lead to higher student achievement The authors give you good reasons for why some content standards should be dropped and explain how benchmark statements in standards should be rewritten Learn how to sequence content and set up grading scales that help facilitate formative assessment and effective instruction And get clear steps for unpacking and converting standards into guidelines that are much more useful to classroom teachers To implement this book s much more efficient approach the authors included over 240 pages of detailed scoring scales and sample measurement topics for k 8 science math language arts social studies and critical life skills topics for elementary through high school students Oklahoma Administrative Code , 2015 A compilation of permanent rules and executive orders Including updates filed with the Secretary of State as of August 15 2011 Resources in Education , 2001-04 Educating Americans for the 21st Century: Source materials National Science Board (U.S.). Science Teacher Education Sandra K. Abell,2001-11-30 Analysis of past developments in teacher education in Pakistan has shown that substantial progress has been made in this field It has however been pointed out that education of science teachers still needs much improvement At the present there is an emergent need to meet the shortage of qualified science teachers and at the same time to bring qualitative improvements in the courses offered in teacher education institutions First we recommend that the 1 year duration of teacher preparation is grossly inadequate for all teaching courses and should be lengthened and the qualifications for entrance be increased We believe that teaching must be made a graduate profession For example the basic qualification of primary school teachers for admission to teacher education institution should be increased We recommend that PTC should be made a 12 2 year program Similarly CT 12 3 B Ed 14 2 B S Ed 12 4 M A Ed 14 3 and M Ed one year after B Ed or B S Ed Secondly we think the quality of instruction in teacher preparation programs should be improved Most teachers in the teacher preparation institutions use the lecture method most of the time Prospective teachers behave like passive listeners to their teachers They do not participate in the teaching learning process Some instructors even dictate their notes to the preservice teachers When the teachers join schools they behave the same way

Ignash, 1997 In 1894 forty percent of college freshmen enrolled in pre collegiate programs to prepare for regular college coursework In Fall 1995 twenty nine percent of entering freshmen enrolled in at least one remedial course The debate over the need for and appropriateness of remedial developmental education at the postsecondary level has spanned a century The upcoming 1998 Reauthorization of the Higher Education Act has added fuel to the debate Legislators educators and the general public are asking questions and raising accountability issues Who needs remedial developmental education Why does the need for it appear to be increasing How much does it cost Who should pay for it Are remedial developmental programs effective Who should provide it Legislators and the public are upset over the perception that they are paying twice for the same education once in high school and once again in college Educators are concerned about the potential devaluation of higher education through the provision of large amounts of remedial developmental education And students too are unhappy with the time and expense necessary to develop English and math skills that they should have learned in high school Each chapter of this volume addresses a specific policy question involved in the debate over remedial developmental education and uses national and state data as well as information from case studies of individual institutions to provide insights into effective approaches to remedial developmental education This is the one hundredth issue of the quarterly journal New Directions for Community Colleges For more information on the series please see the Journals and Periodicals section
