Manual de Telepatología (Telepathology Manual) ,2001 Fatty Acids and Cardiometabolic Health Jason Wu,Matti Marklund,2019-05-09 The impact of fat intake on hypercholesterolemia and related atherosclerotic cardiovascular diseases has been studied for decades However the current evidence base suggests that fatty acids also influences cardiometabolic diseases through other mechanisms including effects on glucose metabolism body fat distribution blood pressure inflammation and heart rate Furthermore studies evaluating single fatty acids have challenged the simplistic view of shared health effects within fatty acid groups categorized by degree of saturation In addition investigations of endogenous fatty acid metabolism including genetic studies of fatty acid metabolizing enzymes and the identification of novel metabolically derived fatty acids have further increased the complexity of fatty acids health impacts This Special Issue aims to include original research and up to date reviews on genetic and dietary modulation of fatty acids and the role and function of dietary and metabolically derived fatty acids in cardiometabolic health Neuroethology of the Colonial Mind: Ecological and Evolutionary Context of Social Brains J. Frances Kamhi,Sara Arganda Carreras,Mathieu Lihoreau,2023-10-02 Animal groups often display striking collective organization which relies on social interactions These interactions require neural substrates supporting the exchange of information among individuals and the processing of this information The social brain hypothesis suggested from neuroanatomical findings in primates posits that increasing levels of sociality involve a higher investment in neural tissue to cope with social information However distributed cognition and swarm intelligence might alleviate the cognitive load on the individuals and potentially reduce their neural requirements Research on social insects which are an exemplar of collective action has so far produced mixed results Individual cognition and collective action have received a lot of attention and much progress has been done in each of those fields however much less is understood about how the two interact Our goal is to aggregate theoretical and experimental research exploring the links between the complexity of individual and collective behaviors Experimental research testing the social brain hypothesis showed little support for a general explanation across the animal kingdom The relationship between the cognitive abilities of animals and their social interactions are much more complex than previously thought and tackling this problem requires a better knowledge of the fundamental mechanisms underpinning socio cognitive tasks What is the information used by the animals during social interactions How much information is necessary How many neurons and which neural circuits are required for processing this information What neural connections are important Do these social interactions involve memory formation How do the cognitive requirements and neural circuits vary between group members Answering these questions will bring considerable insights into the cognitive complexity involved for social and collective behaviors It will also advance our understanding of inter individual cognitive variability and division of labor in most socially advanced species This Research Topic will be a unique forum for researchers from different fields neurogenetics neuro ethology evolutionary ecology cognitive ecology collective animal behavior computational modeling working on different species to present up to date advances on the physiological correlates of social behavior and delineate future directions for the field of social neuroethology We welcome contributions on any aspect of the cognitive requirements of social and collective behaviors from molecular cellular and circuit level approaches to how individuals contribute to group action at the behavioral level Specific areas of interest include but are not limited to studies on the neural underpinnings of division of labor neuromodulation or neurogenetics of social behaviors the neural circuits and neuroanatomical basis of group action and how social signals affect learning and behavior We encourage submissions that present original research and review evidence or compare data from multiple species We hope to include work from different disciplines and on a wide range of species including model non model and wild animals with the aim of gaining insight into the patterns of neural investment in individual cognition Targeting Angiogenesis to Treat Autoimmune Diseases and Cancer Michal Amit Rahat,Vijaya Iragavarapu-Charyulu,Julia Kzhyshkowska,2020-07-08

Material Parameter Identification and Inverse Problems in Soft Tissue Biomechanics Stéphane Avril, Sam Evans, 2016-10-12 The articles in this book review hybrid experimental computational methods applied to soft tissues which have been developed by worldwide specialists in the field People developing computational models of soft tissues and organs will find solutions for calibrating the material parameters of their models people performing tests on soft tissues will learn what to extract from the data and how to use these data for their models and people worried about the complexity of the biomechanical behavior of soft tissues will find relevant approaches to address this complexity Research Report ,2008
