The Library Companion, Or, The Young Man's Guide, and the Old Man's Comfort, in the Choice of a Library Thomas Frognall Dibdin, 1824 Old Young Lovers Ahmed Hamdy, 2010-10-18 As people living in Cairo had faced many problems throughout the years love has become a rare feeling that struggles to get through to the Egyptian hearts either to add some joy to their lives or in other cases increase their suffrage In this book the author zooms in on thirteen different love scenes that take place under the lights of the Egyptian capital Routledge Library Editions: Linguistics Various, 2021-12-02 Routledge Library Editions Linguistics brings together as one set mini sets or individual volumes a series of previously out of print classics from a variety of academic imprints With titles ranging from Applied Linguistics and Language Learning to Experimental Psycholinguistics and Sociolinguistics Today International Perspectives this set provides in one place a wealth of important reference sources from a wide range of authors expert in the field Oliver Optic's Magazine for Young and Old Oliver Optic, 1875 Language and Identities Carmen Llamas, 2009-12-18 Language and Identities offers a broad survey of our current state of knowledge on the connections between variability in language use and the construction negotiation maintenance and performance of identities at different levels individual group regional and national It brings together over 20 specially commissioned chapters written by distinguished international scholars on a range of topics around the language identity nexus The collection deals sequentially with identities at various levels both social and personal Using detailed empirical evidence the chapters illustrate how the multi layered dynamic nature of identities is realised through linguistic behaviour Several chapters in the volume focus on contexts in which we might expect to observe a foregrounding of factors involved in the definition and delimitation of self and other for example cases in which identities may be disputed changing blurred peripheral or imposed Such a focus on complex contexts allows clearer insight into the identity making and marking functions of language The collection approaches these topics from a range of perspectives with contributions from sociolinguists sociophoneticians linguistic anthropologists clinical linguists and forensic linguists Old and Young. [A Novel.], 1859 Canadian Books for Young People/Livres canadiens pour la jeunesse, 3e Irma McDonough, 1980-12-15 This third completely revised edition contains hundreds of new entries for a total of almost 2 000 children s books and magazines carefully selected and described by a team of children s librarians Entries are arranged by subject with reading levels indicated where necessary and are also listed in a separate author title index A list of prize winning Canadian children s books and a basic book list for librarians teachers and parents are included in this charmingly illustrated volume The Broadview Anthology of British Literature: Concise Volume B - Third Edition Joseph Black et al., 2021-08-03 The two volume Broadview Anthology of British Literature Concise Edition provides an attractive alternative to the full six volume anthology Though much more compact the Concise Edition nevertheless provides substantial choice offering both a strong selection of canonical authors and a sampling of lesser known works With an unparalleled selection of illustrations and of contextual materials accessible and engaging introductions and full explanatory annotations these volumes provide concise yet extraordinarily wide ranging coverage for British Literature survey courses New to this volume are Samuel Beckett's Endgame and Robert Louis Stevenson's Strange Case of Dr Jekyll and Mr Hyde new authors include Dorothy Wordsworth John Clare Tomson Highway Derek Walcott and Chimamanda Ngozi Adichie The third edition now also offers substantially expanded representation of Irish Scottish and Welsh literatures as well as contextual materials on Gothic literature Modernism and World War II Material that no longer appears in the bound book may in most cases be found on the companion website many larger works are also available in separate volumes that may at the instructor's request be bundled together with the anthology at no extra cost to the student Features New to the Third Edition New longer texts including Dickens's performance reading of David Copperfield Gaskell's The Manchester Marriage Stevenson's Strange Case of Dr Jekyll and Mr Hyde and Beckett's Endgame New short selections from longer works including Eliot's Middlemarch Shelley's Frankenstein Barrett Browning's Aurora Leigh and Tennyson's In Memoriam A H H New bound book author entries for Dorothy Wordsworth John Clare Emily Brontë Thomas de Quincey Walter Pater Isaac Rosenberg Tomson Highway Derek Walcott Jeanette Winterson and Chimamanda Ngozi Adichie New selections representing Literary Currents in Ireland Scotland and Wales in the Long Nineteenth Century New Contexts section on Gothic Literature including materials by Horace Walpole Ann Radcliffe and Jane Austen Literature Politics and Cultural Identity section includes numerous new authors and pieces including work by Sorely MacLean James Kelman Gillian Clarke Kamau Brathwaite Kim Moore and Warsan Shire Proceedings of GALA 2017 Pedro Guijarro-Fuentes, Cristina Suárez-Gómez, 2019-01-08 This volume is a comprehensive state of the science treatment of the acquisition of different Indo and Non Indo European languages in different contexts i e L1 L2 L3 Ln bi multilingual language heritage languages pathology and language impairment and sign language acquisition conducted within the generative framework It also encompasses the diversity of methodologies and issues that can be found with contemporary research in the field The different chapters contain original research from several different angles and provide a basis for dialogue between researchers working on diverse projects with the aim to further our understanding of how languages are acquired and at the same time refine and propose new theoretical constructs such as complexity of linguistic features as a relevant factor forming children's adult's and bilingual's acquisition of syntactic morphological lexical and phonological structures National Identity and Ingroup-Outgroup Attitudes in Children:

The Role of Socio-Historical Settings Louis Oppenheimer, Martyn Barrett, 2014-02-04 This special issue reports the findings from eight studies which examined children's national identifications and national attitudes Data were collected from 725 7 and 11 year old children living in countries that have or have not experienced violence or war in the recent past Twelve national groups participated in the studies including Jewish and Arab children Israel Bosniak and Serbian children Bosnia Catholic and Protestant children Northern Ireland Greek Cypriot and Turkish Cypriot children Cyprus Basque and

Spanish children the Basque Country and Dutch and English children The Netherlands and England The studies examined whether differences in the structure and content of national identity and attitudes result not only from processes of knowledge acquisition but also from cohort and context effects Developmental and gender differences within each national group and differences between national groups are explored in terms of the cultural heritage of the particular group to which the children belong and the patterns of historical and contemporary relationships that exist between their own group and the various outgroups towards which their attitudes were assessed Findings show that the development of national identifications and national attitudes exhibit considerable cross national variation as a function of the specific socio historical contexts within which children develop These studies considered together indicate the need for developmental theorising in this area to avoid simplistic conclusions based upon data collected within just one specific location The adoption of a broader cross national comparative perspective is required when attempting to address questions concerning how children s national identifications and attitudes develop within real world settings

Political Engagement of the Young in Europe

Peter Thijssen, Jessy Siongers, Jeroen Van Laer, Jacques Haers, Sara Mels, 2015-12-14 Although many scholars are convinced of the apparent civic disengagement of youth others suggest that civic participation of young people is stable and increasingly expressed through non institutionalized forms of practicing politics This book makes a key contribution to this discussion by asking whether the decline or shift paradigm is sufficient in understanding political participation of the youth It argues that we need to move beyond this framework and develop a renewed reflection on the meaning of civic and political engagement It asks crucial questions such as How can the young be educated into assuming civic and political responsibility Why and how do young people engage in social and political action How do the principal mediating institutions education media and the family contribute to new or different forms of youth civic engagement This text contains contributions from acknowledged specialists such as Constance Flanagan Mark Elchardus Marc Hooghe and Bert Klandermans and will be of key interest to students and scholars of youth and young citizens civic political involvement European politics youth studies sociology political participation and electoral behaviour

Partonopeus de Blois Penny Eley,2011 First book length treatment of a fascinating medieval French romance underlining its influence in the genre Partonopeus de Blois is one of the most important works of twelfth century French fiction it shaped the development of romance as a genre gave rise to adaptations in several other medieval languages and even an opera Massenet s Esclarmonde However partly because of its complicated transmission history and partly due to the fact that it has been overshadowed by the works of Chr tien de Troyes it has been unjustly neglected This firstfull length study of the romance brings together literary historical and manuscript studies to explore its making as it evolved through seven medieval editions the earliest of which probably predated most of Chr tien s romances The book s thematic analyses show how the Partonopeus poet applied established techniques of rewriting to a wide range of classical vernacular and Celtic sources combining this literary fusion with political subtexts to create a new and influential model of romance composition Detailed studies of the Continuation reveal more ambitious experimentation by the original author as well as the activities of a series of editors who continued to modify the text for over a century A final discussion of patronage proposes a new reading of the poem s distinct narratorial interventions on women and love and suggests a link between Partonopeus and a disturbing episode in the history of Blois Penny Eley is Professor of Medieval French at the University of Sheffield

Understanding Language Contact Evangelia Adamou,Barbara E. Bullock,Almeida Jacqueline Toribio,2023-08-29 Understanding Language Contact offers an accessible and empirically grounded introduction to contact linguistics Rather than taking a traditional focus on the outcomes of language contact this book takes the novel approach of considering these outcomes as an endpoint of bilingualism and multilingualism Covering speech production and comprehension language diffusion across different interactional networks and timeframes and the historical outcomes of contact induced language change this book Discusses both how these areas relate to one another and how they correspond to different theoretical fields and methodologies Draws together concepts and methodological theoretical advances from the related fields of bilingualism and sociolinguistics to show how these can shed new light on the traditional field of contact linguistics Presents up to date research in a digestible form Includes examples from a wide range of contact languages including Creoles and pidgins Indigenous minority and heritage languages mixed languages and immigrants linguistic practices to illustrate ideas and concepts Features exercises to test students understanding as well as suggestions for further reading to expand knowledge in specific areas Written by three experienced teachers and researchers in this area Understanding Language Contact is key reading for advanced undergraduate and postgraduate students approaching bilingualism and language contact for the first time

Lexical Tone Perception in Infants and Young Children: Empirical studies and theoretical perspectives Leher Singh, Denis Burnham, Jessica Hay, Lihuan Liu, Karen Mattock, 2019-11-20

In psycholinguistic research there has traditionally been a strong emphasis on understanding how particular language types are processed and learned In particular Romance and Germanic languages e.g. English French German have until recently received more attention than other types such as Chinese languages This has led to selective emphasis on the phonological building blocks of European languages consonants and vowels to the exclusion of lexical tones which like consonants and vowels determine lexical meaning but unlike consonants and vowels are based on pitch variations Lexical tone is pervasive it is used in at least half of the world languages Maddieson 2013 e.g. most Asian and some African Central American and European languages This Research Topic brings together a collection of recent empirical research on the processing and representation of lexical tones across the lifespan with an emphasis on advancing knowledge on how tone systems are acquired The articles focus on various aspects of tone early perception of tones influences of tone on word learning the acquisition of new tone systems and production of tones One set of articles report on tone perception at the earliest stage of development in infants learning either tone or non tone languages Tsao and Chen et al demonstrate that infants sensitivity to Mandarin lexical tones as well as pitch improves over the first year of life in native and non native learners in contrast to traditional accounts of perceptual narrowing for consonants and vowels Gtz et al report a different pattern of perception for Cantonese tones and further demonstrate influences of methodological approaches on infants tone sensitivity Fan et al demonstrate that sensitivity to less well studied properties of tone languages such as neutral tone may develop after the first year of life Cheng and Lee ask a similar question in an electrophysiological study and report effects of stimulus salience on infants neural response to native tones In a complementary set of studies focused on tone sensitivity in word learning Burnham et al demonstrate that infants bind tones to newly learned words if they are learning a tone language either monolingually or bilingually although it was also found that object word binding was influenced by the properties of individual tones Liu and Kager chart a developmental trajectory over the second year of life in which infants narrow in their interpretation of non native tones Choi et al investigate how learning a tone language can influence uptake of other suprasegmental properties of language such as stress and demonstrate that native tone sensitivity in children can facilitate stress sensitivity when learning a stress based language Finally two studies focus on sensitivity to pitch in a sub class tone languages pitch accent languages In a study on Japanese children s abilities to recognise words they know Ota et al demonstrate a limited sensitivity to native pitch contrasts in toddlers In contrast Ramachers et al demonstrate comparatively strong sensitivity to pitch in native and non native speakers of a different pitch accent system Limburghian when learning new words Several studies focus on learning new tone systems In a training study with school aged children Kasisopa et al demonstrate that tone language experience increases children s abilities to learn new tone contrasts Poltrock et al demonstrate similar advantages of tone experience in learning new tone systems in adults And in an electrophysiological study Liu et al demonstrate order effects in adults neural responses to new tones discussing implications for learning tone languages as an adult Finally Hannah et al demonstrate that extralinguistic cues such as facial expression can support adults learning of new tone systems In three studies investigating tone production Rattansone et al report the results of a study demonstrating kindergartners asynchronous mastery of tones delayed acquisition of tone sandhi forms relative to base forms In a study interrogating a corpus of adult tone production Han et al demonstrate that mothers produce tones in a distinct manner when speaking to infants tone differences are emphasised more when speaking to infants than to adults Combining perception and production of tones Wong et al report asynchronous development of tone perception and tone production in children The Research Topic also includes a series of Opinion pieces and Commentaries addressing the broader relevance of tone and pitch to the study of language acquisition Curtin and Werker discuss ways in which tone can be integrated into their model of infant language development PRIMIR Best discusses the phonological status of lexical tones and considers how recent empirical research on tone perception bears on this question Kager focuses on how language learners distinguish lexical tones from other sources of pitch variation e g affective and pragmatic that also inform language comprehension Finally Antoniou and Chin unite evidence of tone sensitivity from children and adults and discuss how these areas of research can be mutually informative Psycholinguistic studies of lexical tone acquisition have burgeoned over the past 13 years This collection of empirical studies and opinion pieces provides a state of the art panoply of the psycholinguistic study of lexical tones and demonstrate its coming of age The articles in this Research Topic will help address the hitherto Eurocentric non tone language research emphasis and will contribute to an expanding narrative of speech perception speech production and language acquisition that includes all of the world s languages Importantly these studies underline the scientific promise of drawing from tone languages in psycholinguistic research the research questions raised by lexical tone are unique and distinct from those typically applied to more widely studied languages and populations The comprehensive study of language acquisition can only benefit from this expanded focus
