

Prepared in cooperation with the Bureau of Land Management

Rangeland Condition Monitoring Assessment and Projection, 1985-2021

Description

In collaboration with the Bureau of Land Management (BLM), the U.S. Geological Survey has produced the first map of Rangeland Condition Monitoring (RCM) for the period 1985-2021 (27 years) as part of the Rangeland Condition Monitoring Assessment and Projection (RCMAP) project (BLM and others, 2023). RCMAP maps rangeland condition, including vegetation, soil, and other factors, and provides a baseline for monitoring change and assessing the effects of climate change and land use on rangeland health and productivity.

We downloaded data from the National Land Characterization Database website at <https://www.nlcd.gov/>.

Intended Use

Land managers and researchers can use the RCMAP data to monitor changes in vegetation, soil, and other factors over time. The data can also be used to assess the effects of climate change and land use on rangeland health and productivity.

Training Data

Training data are extracted from the RCMAP data, including field observations and field data generated using remotely sensed imagery and machine learning (table 1 and fig. 1).

Independent Data

Training data include the RCMAP data, as well as the field data generated using remotely sensed imagery and machine learning (table 1 and fig. 1).
