"Using [The Immortal Life of Henrietta Lacks] in the classroom will deepen your students' understanding of nonfiction, science, medicine, and history—but more than that, it will prepare them to engage thoughtfully with the profound moral and ethical dilemmas posed by emergent technologies and the world we share."

—Amy Jurskis, Tri-Cities High School, East Point, Georgia

"Skloot narrates the science lucidly, tracks the racial politics of medicine thoughtfully, and tells the Lacks family's often painful story with grace . . . Science writing is often just about the 'facts.' Skloot's book, her first, is far deeper, braver, and more wonderful. . . . Made my hair stand on end."

—The New York Times Book Review

"Heartbreaking and powerful, unsettling yet compelling, The Immortal Life of Henrietta Lacks is a richly textured story of the hidden costs of scientific progress. Deftly weaving together history, journalism and biography, Rebecca Skloot's sensitive account tells of the enduring, deeply personal sacrifice of this African American woman and her family and, at long last, restores a human face to the cell line that propelled 20th century biomedicine. A stunning illustration of how race, gender and disease intersect to produce a unique form of social vulnerability; this is a poignant, necessary and brilliant book."

—Alondra Nelson, Associate Professor of Sociology, Columbia University; editor of Technique: Race, Technology and Everyday Life

"The Immortal Life of Henrietta Lacks is an ideal book for classroom discussions in bioethics, history of science, and journalism. Author Rebecca Skloot does an exceptional job of raising critical issues that should encourage both scholars and students to reevaluate the research decision making process, the way research subjects are treated, and the balance of power in this country as determined by race, economics, and even education. An incredibly readable and smart text that should be a part of countless university discussions."

—Deborah Blum, Helen Firstbook Franklin Professor of Journalism, University of Wisconsin-Madison; author of The Poisoner's Handbook: Murder and the Birth of Forensic Medicine in Jazz Age New York
