A Cook's Table Jan Jorgensen, Todd Wernstrom, 2024-11-08 This cookbook will not be like most other cookbooks And when we write this we're not claiming that we have reinvented the genre one that has not really changed all that much other than in presentation over the centuries Our book is not organized by the seasons It is not pegged to certain proteins the cuisine of a specific country or cooking techniques be they primal or avant garde Instead we have organized this book around a handful of the most commercially important and recognizable grapes The recipes in each chapter are conceived so as to complement one of that grape's resultant styles of a finished wine This is not the first cookbook to double down on the importance of a dish and a wine complementing each other However we think it goes further on the subject without getting bogged down by theory formulas and rules and the invariable exceptions to them in a very commonsense and straightforward way We have all come a long way from white with fish and red with meat Jan has often said that he'll figure out what to cook and how to cook it based upon what he is in the mood to drink and vice versa That very unfussy sort of weeknight ethos is present throughout these pages The recipes aren't designed to elicit oohs and aahs or impress by employing the newest technology or technique the words sous vide air fryer and even tweezers will not show up in them Instead there are dozens of recipes some simple some less so that hew to traditions that in some cases date back hundreds of years or borne of necessity or by chance Many others are grounded in Jan's background in professional kitchens including his own in Miami Two Chefs Food and the Memory Harlan Walker, 2001 This is the eighteenth volume of the ongoing series of papers and submissions to the Oxford Symposium on Food Cookery the longest running food history conference in the world The subject this year is more speculative than is often the case and contributors have ranged widely over a topic which allows them to explore the psychological bases of food consumption and the development of cookery as well as more obvious excursions down memory lane in pursuit of food and drink
