Know what documents are needed when transferring a patient (diagnosis, medical providers, health status and health history, biographic information, current medications, allergies, code status, adaptive equipment, involvement of the family, diet orders).

Know what are included in the discharge documents and discharge instructions.

Underlying Principles

Knowing and having all the necessary documents ready will make the transfer procedure go smoothly and without any problems. This may help reduce the patient's anxiety when transferring to a new place.

Nursing Interventions

WHO? WHEN? WHY? HOW?

Make sure that everything is all set and ready at the new facility or place before transferring the patient.

Inform the patient and family why the patient will be transferred and where.

Make sure the patient is dressed appropriately and all possessions and valuables are accounted for.
